STEPS TAKEN

Will Co-Ordinate Allied War Plans

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal, announced in the House of Commons today that "all necessary steps" are being taken to co-ordinate the military plans of Great Britain, Russia and the United States.

Ontario May Avoid Wartime Election

TORONTO, Dec. 16.—(CP)—The Globe and Mail said in a newspaper story today it had learned that the Ontario legislature, which opens on Feb. 11, will be asked to extend the term of the Hepburn government, in order to avert the necessity of a wartime election.

The Globe added: "Neither Premier Hepburn nor Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative leader, would comment. But it was stated authoritatively that both leaders, who have separately declared their opposition to unnecessary elections during the war crisis, are in favor of the move."

The present legislature, which has a maximum duration of five years, was elected Oct. 6, 1937, and its term therefore would normally expire in October next year.

Military Alliance

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The Iran government has approved a military alliance with Great Britain and Soviet Russia, said a broadcast of the Ankara radio Monday.

Mr. Attlee announced a secret debate on the war would be held in the House of Commons before Christmas to discuss creation of an allied war council and other war problems.

Some members had wanted a public debate to air thoroughly such questions as why the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse were allowed to proceed against the Japanese without fighter aircraft support, the reason given by Prime Minister Churchill for their destruction by Japanese planes.

Mr. Attlee said a general statement on loss of the two ships might follow the debate and added that the Prime Minister would make no further general war statement in the near future.

64 Executed

LONDON, Dec. 16. — (CP) — The German radio, quoting a dispatch from Belgrade, said today 64 persons, including seven women, had been executed in German-occupied Yugoslavia, and 150 persons arrested.

Soviets Smash 3 Nazi Divisions

MOSCOW, Dec. 16.—(AP)—A special Russian communique declared today more than three German divisions were smashed with more than 13,000 of their number killed or wounded, and that huge quantities of heavy equipment were seized by the Red army in its recapture of Klin.

The special communique followed an earlier official announcement that Klin, 50 miles northwest of Moscow, and three key points in the Tula zone had been retaken, indicating that the Nazi pincer around Moscow had been blunted.

Two of the three Nazi divisions declared to have been routed were motorized units.

(The Russians previously had declared that 23 German divisions had been smashed since the second major Nazi offensive against Moscow was launched last Nov. 16.

(Lice-borne typhus was reported in Berne to have been added to such German handicaps as sub-zero cold and supply difficulties. The Kaunas correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said some German troops were infected by an epidemic which had spread eastward from the Oatmark area of Poland.)

Red army blows upon the central front were pictured by the Soviet information bureau as part of a vast counter-offensive overrunning scores of German positions, bleeding an invasion force already declared to have suffered 6,000,000 casualties.

The Germans were said to have lost 8,000 officers and soldiers killed and wounded in a seven-day fight in the Kalinin zone, 95 miles northwest of Moscow, and vast quantities of war equipment.

PUT BLAME ON BRITAIN

Nazis Sink Spain, Vichy Ships

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Great Britain charged today that German submarines are sinking Vichy and Spanish merchant ships indiscriminately and throwing the blame on Britain to stir up new trouble and gain "relief from the serious military situation" in Russia and Libya.

An admiralty statement denied a Vichy communique charging a submarine, "presumably British", had sunk the French merchantman St. Denis and said that during the last eight weeks German submarines have been operating in the western Mediterranean where the attack occurred.

The communique said German U-boats not only had sunk the St. Denis but also had attacked the French naval oiler Tarn, and sunk the Spanish steamships Castillo Oropesa and Badalona.

It said German U-boats in the same Spanish territorial waters sank the British vessel Greilhead and the Norwegian steamship Fjord.

Jap Assault On Philippine Islands Slows Temporarily

By R. P. CRONIN

MANILA, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Japan's assault on the Philippine Islands slackened today to an air attack on Olongapo naval base, northwest of Manila Bay, but defence forces regarded the respite as only temporary.

Although there is no official explanation, most observers said the let-up probably meant the Japanese are moving additional forces and supplies into position off the island coasts, resting pilots, overhauling planes and marshalling gasoline, bombs and ammunition for new and powerful attacks.

Japan's concentration on the siege of Hong Kong, it was said, also may have contributed to the Philippines' respite.

No new enemy attempt to reinforce the three beach heads wrested on Luzon Island at heavy cost of men, ships and planes last week or to establish new ones has been reported. One brief war bulletin yet issued by the United States army headquarters said at 4 p.m. (4 a.m., M.S.T.) only, "no change in the situation on the ground."

Defence forces are utilizing the lull to smooth out their organization and array their forces to meet the expected new onslaught.

Province Goes Into Field Of Life Insurance

Extension of the Alberta government insurance activities to include the writing of life insurance will become operative on Friday, Jan. 2, it was announced Tuesday by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Two years ago, in September, 1939, the provincial government entered the fire insurance business in competition with other companies and figures given at the last session of the legislature were that $12,000,000 worth of business had been written in fire insurance up until that time by the government office.

PROCLAMATION

At the 1941 session an amendment to the Alberta Insurance Act was passed, empowering the government to extend its activities to include life insurance. The amending act was to come into force on proclamation and this proclamation has been issued bringing the act into force as from Dec. 15.

In its life insurance operations the government office contemplates issuing four types of policy, the 20-pay life, ordinary life, term insurance for five years and in-

High Standard Horse Breeding Urged At Meet

Need for a carefully worked out breeding program to enable Alberta horse breeders to take full advantage of post-war demands for good horses was stressed by James Mitchell, provincial government horse promoter, at the meeting of the Alberta Provincial Horse Breeders' Association annual meeting held Tuesday in the council chamber, city hall.

W. J. Burns, well-known Edmonton horsebreeder, was re-elected president of the association, with E. L. Clarke, Edmonton, as vice-president. Members of the executive elected were: G. H. Rowsell, Edmonton; Charles Ellett, South Edmonton and C. A. Toane, South Edmonton. Continuing members of the executive are J. Nicholls, Westlock and Lawrence M. Ryle, Edmonton.

Annual meeting of the Alberta Provincial Cattle Breeders' Association opened Tuesday afternoon, and that of the Sheep and Swine Breeders' Associations will be held on Thursday.

BEST BLOOD LINES

Mr. Mitchell said that Alberta horse breeders should see to it that only the best stallions are bred to the best and youngest mares in the stock. Too many farmers have a

Axis Force Is Brought To Battle

CAIRO, Dec. 16.—(AP)—British armored forces have outflanked and brought to battle all remaining German tank forces in Libya and smashed to the heart of the main German and Italian positions despite terrific bomber attacks, the British high command announced today.

The communique said a British column carried out a wide outflanking movement which swept 70 miles past Gazala to a point 150 miles deep in Libyan territory, where it attacked the Axis reserves and rear.

Back of this area, main British and Axis forces were joined in a battle that may decide the fate of the North African campaign.

(The London military commentator said the outflanking movement threatened to cut off Lt. Gen. Erwin Rommel's army entirely, but that the coastal road northwest from the Gazala area to Tmimi and Derna was still in Axis hands. The commentator said Rommel probably would attempt to withdraw very rapidly toward the road, which the British forces were threatening.)

CONTINUE ADVANCE

British forces continued their advance southwest of Gazala despite fierce opposition and repeated counter-attacks" by German and Italian infantry yesterday reached Alem Hamza, some 13 miles southwest of Gazala, the communique related.

Where they attacked a defensive position held by strong elements of one German and three Italian divisions "supported by all the remaining German tank strength," it continued.

"After heavy fighting, during which the centre of the enemy position was penetrated in spite of two determined counter-attacks by German motorized infantry and tanks, progress was made."

Debt Act Will Function Under Alberta Board

Until final disposition of the province's appeal to the Privy Council against the ruling by the supreme court of Canada that the Alberta Debt Adjustment Act is unconstitutional, that act will continue to function under administration of the Debt Adjustment Board, according to Premier William Aberhart, who is also attorney general.

In the meantime, the premier announced that an order-in-council had been passed amending consolidated rules of court for this province, by providing that actions in connection with debts covered by the Act, shall be started only in the supreme court in this city and Calgary and that time for service of statements of defence is extended from 15 days to 30 and 45 days.

PREMIER'S STATEMENT

The premier made the following statement in connection with the passage of the order:

"The order provides for all Supreme Court actions in connection with old debts, that is debts covered by the Debt Adjustment Act, shall be started only in the Supreme Court of Edmonton and Calgary. The order also provides for an extension of time for serving Statement of Defence from 15 days to 30 days and 45 days.

"The object of this order is to enable the Debt Adjustment Board to look after the interests of debtors. We trust that there will not be a rush on the part of creditors to take proceedings against debtors. In every case the

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE continued success of Soviet arms against the German invaders changes the question of whether Germany could knock Russia out of the war this winter to whether she can knock Russia out at all.

Hitler publicly has given up hope of striking farther into Russia, either in the Moscow-Leningrad region or the rich south, before next spring.

The Russians have retrieved the Don industrial region, saved Moscow and besieged Leningrad now are engaged in driving the Germans out of the Crimea. Their offensive shows no signs of slackening and it is impossible to tell how far they might drive back the invader and how much territory they may regain.

NOT FORGOTTEN FUND

Will Give Joy To All Disabled Men In Military Ward

This is a time of national crisis. Canada is girding for greater efforts in winning the war. Selective service for both men and women has been announced. But even in this period of Dominion and democratic peril, there is work to be done at home and the need for helping the less fortunate is as great as ever. It is on just such occasions that the Not Forgotten Fund fills a much-needed spot and performs a greatly appreciated service.

Each Christmas season, The Bulletin opens its columns to receive donations to the Not Forgotten Fund, which has as its object the provision of a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year for the soldier patients of the military ward of the University hospital.

In the years subsequent to the Great War of 1914-1918 this fund helped hundreds of soldier patients struggling with adversity, to inner light and outer strength.

British Troops May Be Forced Quit Hong Kong

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(CP)—An informed source said today that Hong Kong might have to be evacuated and that a serious threat to Singapore had developed in Thai fighting on the Malay peninsula.

"British lack of naval superiority has changed the entire situation in northern Malaya," the source said. "The British land defence was planned on the basis of naval superiority, but both the British and United States fleets have suffered hard blows.

DEFINITE DANGER

"Now the naval situation has allowed the Japanese to develop an offensive on a large scale. There definitely is danger—a real threat to Singapore by land."

Several British quarters expressed doubt that Hong Kong could hold out indefinitely against the concentrated Japanese attack.

(A BBC broadcast heard by CBS announced withdrawal of all British forces from the mainland to the island of Hong Kong. The broadcast said that on the Malay peninsula the Japanese had developed their large scale offensive through capture of airdromes at Victoria Point, southernmost tip of Burma, and the Malayan border airdrome at Kota Bharu.)

TINY CRAFT APPEAR AT HAWAII

Japs May Use 'Schools' Of 2-Man Subs In Pacific War

By RICHARD C. HOTTELET

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — (BUP) — Allied naval forces in the Pacific may find pitted against them "schools" of tiny, two-man submarines — probably no bigger than a whale.

Until today that Japanese secret weapon was only an unconfirmed rumor. The mystery about baby submarines was dispelled by Secretary of Navy Frank Knox who revealed that they were used in the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl harbor a week ago Sunday.

Knox said one of the submarines was destroyed by depth charges and that another was captured. The captured craft should help allied forces plan attacks against them.

No details about dimensions of these submarines have been released. Naval experts estimate they are about 30 feet long, seven feet wide, and with a displacement of about 30 tons.

There is no indication how many were used at Pearl harbor, but they apparently did no damage. At least one, however, did succeed in penetrating the harbor defences and coming within "a

NO U. S. PLANES AWAITING ASSEMBLY

British Aircraft Plants Now At Peak Of Efficiency

American Technical Staff Quickly Prepare Overseas Deliveries For Sky Action

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK

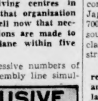

Copyright, 1941, by the Chicago Daily News, and The Edmonton Bulletin

A WESTERN ENGLAND AIRCRAFT ASSEMBLY PLANT, Dec. 16.—The assembling of American planes shipped to Great Britain has reached such a peak of efficiency that there are none piled up awaiting uncrating.

A visit to one of the biggest of the many receiving centres in Britain showed that organization is working so well now that necessary modifications are made to the assembled plane within five to seven days.

There are impressive numbers of planes on the assembly line simultaneously. This efficiency, however, is based on the set up which originally took from 12 to 14 weeks to establish.

Suggestions that American planes are still lying in crates on the dockside are vehemently denied by W. C. Devereux chief of North American supplies. He showed members of the press a few of the biggest assembly units today where the entire technical and administrative staff is American with English mechanics.

Kirkpatrick

MANY TYPES

There were impressive lines of Liberators, Kitty Hawks, Douglas, Boston, Glen Martins, Baltimores, Lockheeds, Hudsons and North American Mustangs.

The Boston is the largest plane which has been shipped here while the Mustang is the newest fast fighter and the only plane which has reached here almost ready for operational work. Modifications required on the Mustang are negligible and include mainly secret British devices.

Practically all planes require additions of camera, guns and radio and the squadrons also use these instruments never are publicly exhibited.

Since the last of the French orders were completed in June the flow of planes from docks to flying squadrons has been greatly expedited. It took considerable experience to know what extra spare parts would be required for repairs. Until these had been established ferry pilots were taken for repairing old ones.

While the residue of French orders was still arriving—last June—there were many planes held up awaiting spare parts and modifications required to make the planes ready for combat.

More and more modifications are being worked into the original manufacture in the United States which is as important for the United States as it is for Britain. Power-operated gun turrets which the British have been putting on Hudsons are already fitted to Liberators and Fortresses in the United States.

WORK SPEEDED UP

The presence of United States Army Air Corps officers here has facilitated agreement on standard designs and has greatly speeded up the work.

The experience that American aircraft companies have gained through shipments to Britain should be most valuable in handling the Pacific defence question. The new planes which will have to be shipped to Hawaii or the Philippines will be similar to the planes sent to protect the planes shipped to Britain. Each plane is sprayed with parakeylone, anti-corrosive paint.

New Protection For Debtors In Alberta Urged

Regret that the Alberta Debt Adjustment Act had been declared ultra vires of the provincial legislature by the supreme court of Canada, was expressed by members of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts when they met Premier William Aberhart and members of his cabinet at the legislative buildings Monday.

All members of the cabinet were present save Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, who is on his way to Ottawa to attend a conference on income and corporation taxes.

The executive expressed the belief that some protection to debtors was necessary in this province and expressed the hope that some alternative scheme of legislation should be passed pending the appeal to the Privy Council, which in wartime "will inevitably be subject to considerable delay."

RESOLUTIONS

The executive submitted resolutions passed at the recent municipal districts convention, together with a brief in support of same.

The resolution which proved the highlight of the convention—that dealing with the organization of large municipal units—had previously been discussed with the government and a committee of the cabinet and therefore, on this occasion, did not receive any further prolonged discussion.

Paul L. Farnalls, president of the municipal districts association, headed the delegation.

Decisive Victory In Libya Soon

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(CP)—L. S. Amery, secretary for, India, said today that the Libyan campaign "now seems definitely turning toward a great decisive victory."

He spoke at a luncheon of the Overseas League.

Discussing the Far East, the minister said that "so long as we hold Singapore no really formidable attack can develop against countries lying within the Indian ocean and sooner or later we can begin that further advance which will end only when Japan sues for peace."

He said the Royal Indian Navy was confronted with the prospect of a battle no less critical than the Battle of the Atlantic.

of the Japanese forces in an attempt to relieve pressure on Hong Kong.

Near Canton, some 75 miles northwest of Hong Kong, the Chinese were reported harassing Japanese movements along the Canton-Hong Kong railway.

CONTINUOUS GUNFIRE

The Chinese also were said in the dispatches to be attacking the Japanese in Hangchow Bay, some 700 miles north of the China coast, south of Shanghai, where they claimed to have recaptured several strategic points.

Continuous heavy gunfire was reported from both Hong Kong and Japanese-occupied Kowloon mainland point of Kowloon following announcement British forces had withdrawn to the Island of Hong Kong.

The mountainous island of Hong Kong offers the British forces little opportunity for partial defence but it was reported well furnished with anti-aircraft artillery and ammunition to cover the chiefly-populated areas against Japanese air raids. "The island is believed to have food supplies for three months.

CANUCKS AT HONG KONG "FACE TRYING TIME"

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—(CP)—The special Canadian force forming a part of the Hong Kong garrison "undoubtedly for the time being . . . is in trying and difficult one," Defence Minister Ralsion said in a statement issued today.

Canadian casualties so far have been "very few," the minister's statement added, saying that the Canadian commander, Brig. J. K. Lawson, was reporting direct to Ottawa the particulars of any casualties as they occur.

"Happily there have so far been very few," said the statement.

TWO CASUALTIES

To date only two casualties among the Canadians at Hong Kong have been announced—the the slight wounding of Sgt. Ronald John Routledge of Forrest, Man., and the death of Gnr. Lloyd Frederick Fairley of Port Alberni, B.C.

Col. Ralston's statement gave no details of activities of the Canadian troops in Hong Kong but said the department was keeping in the closest possible touch with the Commission of the Dominion soldiers "and a daily situation report is received from the brigade officer commanding the fortress."

Col. Ralston's brief statement follows:

MAINTAIN CLOSE TOUCH

"The department of national defence is keeping in closest possible touch with position of Canadian troops at Hong Kong, and a daily situation report is received from the general officer commanding the fortress.

"In addition, Brig. Lawson, the Canadian commander, is reporting direct to Ottawa particulars of casualties as they occur. Happily these have so far been very few.

"Undoubtedly for the time being the position of the Hong Kong garrison is a trying and difficult one. Separate Canadian communiques would, however, be inappropriate as our troops form part of a combined force under British command.

"The daily communique issued by the war office in London is immediately transmitted to Canada and is published in Canadian newspapers and broadcast in news bulletins of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation."

surance up to 65 years. Policies are to be similar to those of other companies and according to law. They will include cash surrender value, loan value and automatic non-forfeiture clauses.

Rates are now being calculated and, according to Mr. Manning, "it is proposed to issue to policyholders protection at the lowest cost consistent with safety."

The life insurance department is in addition to the existing government insurance office and will come under the general supervision of R. R. Moore, superintendent of insurance.

MEDICAL DIRECTOR

Dr. W. A. Wilson, 215 McLeod building, has been appointed medical director to the life insurance branch.

N. H. Parry, formerly of Montreal, has been appointed as life underwriter and has come here specially to take up his new duties as from the date the new office opens.

Recruiting of staff is being appointed and his name will be announced in the near future.

The life insurance offices, as those of the fire insurance branch, will be on the second floor of the Administration building.

Labor Minister Names Boards To Three Provinces

OTTAWA, Dec. 16—(CP)—Labor Minister Mutchy announced Monday establishment of regional war labor boards for British Columbia, Quebec and New Brunswick under provisions of the wartime wages and controlling human order.

The national war labor board and the regional boards have equal representation of employers and employees. Provincial labor ministers are chairmen of the regional boards.

The Ontario regional board was appointed some time ago. There has been no announcement yet on selection of appointees for other provincial boards but it has been announced each province will have one.

Canadian Sailors Display Bravery As Corvette Sinks

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 16.—(CP)—A story of calm bravery aboard the Canadian Corvette Windflower, sunk with the loss of 23 men in collision recently off Newfoundland, was told Monday by Claude Arberry, a member of the crew home on leave. Arberry, a coder aboard the Corvette said "the men were alarmed but there was no panic" when the Corvette's stern was sheared off by the collision. "Those who could, helped injured seamen to the floats and kept them alive in the water for more than an hour until we were picked up."

renew their offensive next year. Russia may be in a better position to resist than she was this time. The rate of her material losses presumably has diminished now that she is on the offensive and the enemy in retreat.

It ought to be possible to make important strides during the winter months in rehabilitating her industries which rapidly are being moved back in the Volga-Ural region and Siberia to replace those knocked out by the Germans in western Russia. Material aid from Britain and the United States presumably will continue, despite the complication of the war with Japan.

Moreover, Germany badly is in need of a new source of oil. Experts agree that her European supply is running low. If she attempts to get it from the middle east or the Caucasus by striking through Turkey, it probably would entail another long and costly campaign which would further deplete her manpower and resources.

MISTAKE OBVIOUS

Hitler's miscalculation of Russia's fighting power now is obvious. His attack on Russia was a mistake that may cost him dearly. If he had thrown against Britain or her possessions what he threw against Russia, the present course of the war might have been different.

Russia thus has been of invaluable aid to the Allies and should continue to be. When the British and Russian generals meet in Moscow shortly, the extent and nature of that aid will be mapped out. The question of Russia's position with relation to Japan undoubtedly will be discussed.

Russia gave what appears to be a valid reason for not engaging in hostilities with Japan at present. She wants to nail down the Hitler menace first, at least for the winter. Then the Japanese menace to her eastern territory might be taken up.

The Allies agree with the Russian attitude. Anyway, it is doubtful that they could change it. The serious Japanese threat to the Philippines and Singapore must be dealt with before the Allies can consider an attack on Japan proper. The vulnerable towns and cities of Japan are inaccessible from any present allied base and the navy and carriers cannot be spared from the Mediterranean.

But when the time comes and Russia consents, an air fleet based in Vladivostok would strike Japan and strike hard.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

DESPITE her stealthy, stab-in-the-back attack on the United States and Britain, the war in the Pacific is not going to Japan's liking.

She has little to show for her nine days' efforts except damages wrought by her surprise bombing in Hawaii, and the bagging of two British battleships by torpedo planes.

Against that, write down the theory land of a handful of American marines on Wake Island. They still grin defiantly back into the bright face of danger and gesture a jaunty challenge to millions of thrilled countrymen at home.

SOUNDS JAPAN'S DOOM

Who will join them, to fight with them if they survive, to avenge them if they perish—and to make that distant island a scene and impetus she shrine to freedom and valor? The roar of an aroused people answers that. Inevitably it sounds the doom of Japan's mad-dog warlords—and of the Nazi instigators of their unspeakable crimes.

Turning to look at the picture in Malaya, the Philippines and the broad sea reaches, we find the pendulum inexorably swinging backward against the Nipponese aggressors. Only at Hong Kong is a major allied bastion under close siege.

Yet Hong Kong is not strategically essential. While the enemy is denied Manila by the defenses of Luzon, even the loss of Hong Kong would be a minor reverse.

Nor is its loss certain. Chinese allies, in flanking and rear attacks on the mainland, are sapping the force of the Japanese drive ashore as the Netherlands navy, eager to avenge Rotterdam is gnawing at Nipponese supply lines in the China sea.

VITAL BASES

Singapore and Manilla are the vital Japanese bases in the China sea. Yet stout British resistance at Hong Kong supported by the Chinese flank and rear attack, is serving the Allies well in more than a psychological sense.

It is forcing the enemy to stall-ery his attacking force on four far separated land fronts. But for the Hong Kong stand, Japanese troops, naval vessels and aircraft involved there could be thrown against Luzon or the Malayan peninsula.

All in all, the Japanese must clearly realize that the impetus they gained by their surprise attacks has now been lost. Already the Japanese leaders are warning their people that British and American submarines probably will raid Japan's coasts or essential sea lines. That expresses a realization that somewhere American and probably British naval forces are mustering to carry the war to Nippon.

Canada's Chief General Staff Now Promoted

OTTAWA, Dec. 16—(CP)—Promotion of Maj.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of the general staff, to the rank of Lieutenant-General, was announced today by Defence Minister Ralston.

This is the rank which, it was previously announced, has been decided on as going with the post of chief of the general staff.

At the same time Col. Ralston announced Brig. Maurice A. Pope, assistant chief of the general staff, had been raised to the rank of Major-General and to be Vice Chief.

RAISED TO BRIGADIER

Col. Ralph B. Gibson, director of military operations and intelligence has been raised to the rank of brigadier and to be assistant chief of the general staff (home defence).

The minister said Brig. Gibson, a former officer commanding the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, would be specially charged with matters pertaining to home defence. He will devote most of his attention to activities and training of Canada's reserve army "from the home defence aspect."

Gen. Stuart's promotion makes him equal in rank to the chief of the naval staff and the chief of the air staff, Vice-Admiral Percy Nelles and Air Marshal L. W. Breadner. Their promotions from rear-admiral and air vice-marshal also were announced simultaneously with that of Maj. Gen. Crerar, former chief of the general staff, to lieutenant-general.

Co-incident with the top-ranking promotions, Col. Ralston announced that Maj. R. B. Longridge, Duncan, B.C., was appointed lieutenant-colonel in the Canadian Provost Corps.

Passengers Hold Double Car Fare Calgary Illegal

CALGARY, Dec. 16—(CP)—For the first time in police court, two citizens were charged Monday with failing to pay the proper fare on the Bowness street car line. Pleading not guilty were Eva Wallace and Hugh Wallace.

Two tickets are asked of passengers who ride beyond Shouldice. It is alleged the accused paid one fare.

During the summer, only one ticket is asked and the double rate is resumed after Labor Day. This year, the lower rate was extended to the end of the first week in October.

It is alleged the accused refused to pay, on grounds the higher rate was not legal, since "freezing" of prices by the Dominion government. The case was adjourned a week.

High Standard Horse Breeding Urged At Meet

practice of breeding only to old mares that are pretty well through as workers, stated Mr. Mitchell. Foals from young, virile mares will pay dividends.

He told delegates that, with gasoline restrictions going into effect in Canada, there was the possibility of a horse shortage. Rationing of Britain had resulted in a shortage of horses with the result that big prices were now being paid for good sound horses there.

He referred also to the destruction of the best breeding stock in both Belgium and France, and predicted that Canada, and especially Alberta, would receive a brisk demand for good class purebred sires and mares after the war.

He outlined the success achieved by the government co-operative sire purchase plan and said that 26 stallions had been placed under this plan since March 1, 1941. He lauded the co-operation of the district agriculturists in the furtherance of this plan.

Mr. Mitchell referred to the 38 colt shows that had been held during the summer at which 441 colts had been shown, and 12 stallions from the co-operative purchase plan.

K. Rasmussen, Lethbridge experimental farm, spoke on "Hereditary Unsoundness in Horses" and listed these as side bone, bog spavin, bone spavin, curb, string halt, cataract and roaring.

SOUND PARENTS

He stressed that the real improvement in any breed of horses must be based on the genetic soundness as well as the visible soundness of the parents. He said that the removal of the genetic as well as the physical unsound horses will gradually reduce the incidence of any specified unsoundness.

W. J. Burns, in his presidential address, commented on the high prices being paid for horses in Britain, and urged the breeders of the province to build up the quality of the stock to take advantage of markets which undoubtedly would be available when the war was concluded.

He said the real objective of the breeders should be to strive for quality rather than quantity. He predicted there would be a real shortage of good horses owing to gasoline restrictions.

Mr. Burns commended the provincial government on its promotion work in the horse-breeding industry.

The following directors were elected to the executive: Mr. Burns, C. Crockett, Mayerthorpe; Charles E. Ellett, South Edmonton; F. H. Reed, Lacombe; Mr. Allen Bell, Edmonton section; Prof. J. P. Sackville, University of Alberta, and C. A. Toane, South Edmonton.

EXECUTIVE MEETS

At a meeting of the executive held immediately after the annual meeting it was decided to ask the Edmonton Exhibition association to hold the annual spring show and summer fair as usual. This request was in pursuance of the unanimous quest made of livestock associations by the federal government that they carry on as far as possible their activities and that shows and fairs, wherever possible, should be continued as a matter of encouragement to the breeders to produce better stock.

Feature of the convention will be addresses by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal minister of agriculture, who will address the annual banquet at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., speaking on "The Production of Livestock in Canada." He will be guest of honor at the annual banquet to be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at the Corona hotel, where he will speak on "The War and Agriculture."

Mr. Gardiner is also scheduled to address a luncheon meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday at 12:15 noon. His topic will be, "War and Wheat."

Mine-Hospital Probe Postponed At Drumheller

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Dec. 16.—The inquiry ordered by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health, into a contract for feeding at the mines and the Drumheller Municipal Hospital, due to open Tuesday morning at Mr. Justice C. C. Ives, has been postponed until February 24. The inquiry was ordered when miners and hospital could not reach agreement. The main issue to a head the miners asked for the resignation of the hospital board under threat of a strike.

The postponement Tuesday was due to the illness of A. L. Smith, K.C., who is presenting the miners' case.

McNab Appointed Liaison Officer On Pacific Coast

WINNIPEG, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Wing Cmdr. Ernest A. McNab of Swastika, Ont., one of the leading Canadian aces of the war and now commanding officer of the Service Flying Training School at Saskatoon, has been appointed a liaison officer between the Royal Canadian Air Force and the United States Air Force on the west coast, command headquarters of No. 2 Training Command here announced Monday.

ORDERS GIVEN

U.S. Navy Hunts Japanese Fleet

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(AP)—The United States battle fleet, wearing the scars of Pearl Harbor but in formidable fighting strength despite its losses, hunted the vastness of the Pacific today for the Japanese fleet—and vengeance.

The orders, in traditional navy phrasing, were. "Seek out the enemy and destroy him."

The story of Pearl Harbor had been told—a story that disclosed a fatal lack of vigilance, but a story, too, of epic drama, gallantry and plain fighting guts.

USE TWO FORCES

With two forces the navy sought to learn the enemy's whereabouts and dispositions. The main Pacific battle fleet, under command of Admiral, Husband E. Kimmel, presumably was operating west of Hawaii. The smaller Asiatic fleet, under command of Admiral Thomas C. Hart, ranged the South China Sea, looking for the Japanese squadron which got away once under cover of darkness.

The defenders of Wake and Midway continued first in the hearts of United States citizens, and several senators urged that some effort be made to relieve the marines who have been battling off repeated Japanese attacks on the two lonely island outposts.

As for the report of Navy Secretary Frank Knox on Pearl Harbor's "bloody Sunday," the reaction of official and unofficial Washington was generally one of relief.

LOSSES SUFFERED

The losses, as Knox reported them, were: the battleship Arizona, a 32,000-ton dreadnought commissioned in 1916; the destroyers Cassin, Shaw and Woens, 1,500-tonners of 1935-36 construction; the target and training ship Utah, a former battleship of 19,800 tons which was launched in 1909; and the 4,200-ton mine layer Oglala.

An unspecified number of ships were damaged, some so lightly they already have rejoined the attack fleet, and others so severely that repairs will require from a week to several months. Among those requiring major work was the old 29,000-ton battleship Oklahoma which capsized but can be righted and repaired.

The known Japanese losses in the Pearl Harbor raid were listed as 41 aircraft and three submarines—one of them a two-man undersea boat which succeeded in penetrating into the inner harbor despite its outer anti-submarine defences.

The navy had a total of 2,729 killed and 656 wounded. The army had 168 killed, 223 wounded and 26 missing.

Debt Act Will Function Under Alberta Board

clerks of the courts in Edmonton and Calgary will immediately notify the Debt Adjustment Board of any actions taken and if the debtors wish to avail themselves of the board to file a statement of defence they may do so.

"It is hoped that the court will not proceed with any such actions until the Privy Council has given a final ruling on the validity of the Debt Adjustment Act. Should the courts proceed to dispossess any individual before the Privy Council gives a final ruling, and should the Privy Council maintain the validity of the Debt Adjustment Act, then it is obvious that very grave and serious injustices will have been committed, and the complications that would arise would be just as embarrassing to creditors as to debtors.

"Until final disposition of the Debt Adjustment Act by the Privy Council the Debt Adjustment Board will continue to function, receiving applications for a permit and disposing of such applications as it has been doing up to the present time."

BRITAIN'S GIBRALTAR OF INDIAN OCEAN

Aden Fortress Unharmed After Fifty-Three Air Raids

Italian Attackers Favor Safety Of Great Altitude After Cruiser Downs Six

By GEORGE WELLER

Copyright, 1941, by the Chicago Daily News, and The Edmonton Bulletin

ADEN, Dec. 16.—Britain's Gibraltar of the Indian Ocean, Aden, stands intact and unharmed, even though 53 Italian air raids and several times that number of alarms until recently were occasional interruptions to its functions.

Against its background of craggy brown mountains, without tree or blade of grass, Aden still gazes across the few miles of blue water separating it from Djibouti, the last remaining Axis controlled port upon the Red Sea inlet.

Like Singapore, this is a base where the air force command is superior even to the naval authority — recognition that although the United States still delays acknowledgment of the fact that air power is a striking weapon of independent importance by subordinating it to the army and navy, Great Britain already has learned its lesson. While still unable to use the Royal Air Force as Germany uses the Luftwaffe, Britain is preparing for that day to come.

George Weller

RAIDS INEFFECTIVE

Italian raids on Aden were ineffective because, as usual, they were delivered from too great a height. Fascist ardor was dampened early when the cruiser Carlisle shot down six planes in a single raid. Thereafter, the character of the Italian attack was soon limited by the fact that the Fascist pilots were unable to land their big bombers by night on the cramped Ethiopian air ports. They customarily left the Ethiopian fields about midnight, dropped their bombs between three and four in the morning and tried to escape before dawn.

The large shale-covered hill behind the American consulate still shows the crater of a bomb which landed nearly 50 feet away. The bomb was the last of a stick of five which the Italians laid across the middle of the town. Had there been one more in the stick the United States would have needed a new consul to replace Clare Timberlake, active and well-liked American representative here, who at the moment was lying prone on the floor with Robert Cowan, the outgoing American consul then engaged in surrendering his post.

FIERCE AERIAL BARRAGE

Because Italian pilots in several cases decided that it was safer to drop bombs harmlessly in the sea rather than face Aden's fierce aerial barrage, a Fascist colonel of aviation, himself, led an attack over the harbor in order to test the barrage. His report was never delivered. His big Savoia Marchetti was shot down by a British pilot, who by one of those ridiculous flukes which sometimes occur in night fighting, accidentally jammed on his own recognition light before attacking. Although the British machine offered a fair target under these circumstances, the Savoia fell in flames with two wounded members of the crew trapped in the cabin. The other three, including the colonel, parachuted and were rescued from the shark-filled bay.

This colonel was given the honors due a gallant enemy, and, before being remanded to prison camp, he was taken upon several tours of Aden and its environs by his R.A.F. hosts. When he expressed the belief that although his raid ended badly, others had had more success, the flying officers agreed to show him that the principal points in the city were unharmed.

He first asked to see the oil storage tanks which were important because they furnish the bunkering for United States ships bound for the Middle East with lend-lease cargoes. The colonel was taken aback to find them undamaged.

Next he asked to see the power station. Although several small bomb craters were in the neighborhood, this objective likewise was whole. The colonel's jaw dropped slightly. He inquired what were the total losses in Aden from the 53 raids and was told that about 40 Arabs and Indians had been killed when a marketplace was struck but that only one Englishman, a R.A.F. officer engaged in observing a raid, had been killed.

SHOWN FLYING FIELDS

The Italian then demanded to see Aden's flying fields and hangars which he asserted were in ashes. When these too were found intact, he simply refused to believe his eyes.

"You're showing me only the places that escaped," he said. "Let me hire a taxi and go and see the railroad station. We have dropped tons of bombs there. I am certain it is totally destroyed."

Given this permission, he hailed a passing cab and entered, telling the driver: "Drive me to the main railroad station."

"Sorry, boss," said the driver, "I have been carrying passengers around here for the last 20 years and I never seen a railroad to say nothing of a station."

It developed that the Italians had been using an antiquated map which showed a projected railroad with a station. But neither of them was ever built.

Not Forgotten Fund To Cheer War Veterans

forts, entertainments and "extras" for the men of the fighting forces.

There are no public funds for provision of Christmas presents and good things for the men of the military ward. They receive medical and surgical care as well as hospitalization. But the provision of comforts and good things at Christmas must come from private sources.

Thus, the function of the Not Forgotten Fund is as valuable and essential as ever. Without such a fund, little might be done to lighten the troubles of the careworn, battle-scarred veterans in the military ward.

To each and every one is given an opportunity to show these boys that their sacrifices, their sufferings, have not been in vain—that they are appreciated by a grateful, remembering public.

RESPOND NOW

Such an estimable organization as the Edmonton Community Chest, having raised its funds for 1942 activities, cannot embark upon expenditures in 1941. The chest asked that the Not Forgotten Fund be carried on.

Gladly The Bulletin acquiesced. But, it is your fund. The soldier patients sacrificed themselves for you Now is your chance to show that you appreciate and have not forgotten those sacrifices.

Send in your donation to The Bulletin now. No amount is too large; none too small. Upon the extent of your contributions depends the extent to which the wounded, war-torn veterans enjoy Christmas.

Forward your donation to The Bulletin and it will be acknowledged in these columns.

Plane Wreckage Seen By Airmen

HALIFAX, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Officials at the Eastern Air Command said Monday night they were investigating a report that wreckage of an airplane had been sighted in woods near Kentville, N.S. The wreckage was reported officially to have been seen by airmen searching from the air for a Royal Air Force plane from Debert Camp, N.S., missing since Saturday.

Allied Pacific Fleets Crushed Declares Tojo

TOKYO, Dec. 16 — (Japanese radio received by AP)—Premier Hideki Tojo, recapitulating Japanese claims of successes won in the first week of the war, told the Diet today "the bulk of the United States fleet which had been in Hawaii is destroyed and the main body of British far eastern fleet is crushed."

(Frank Knox, United States navy secretary, back from a flying visit to Hawaii, acknowledged yesterday the surprise Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor had sunk the battleship Arizona, the old target ship Utah and three destroyers and had damaged the battleship Oklahoma and several smaller vessels.

HUNT ENEMY

(He declared, however, that "the entire balance of the Pacific fleet," including battleships, aircraft carriers, heavy and light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, now is "at sea seeking contact with the enemy.")

Declaring that "our fighting forces have speedily broken through enemy key positions within less than 10 days," Tojo said:

"The encircling front against Japan, the strength of which the enemy had exaggerated and given wide publicity in an attempt to intimidate us, has been shattered at various places. The anti-Japanese encircling front is on a fair way to collapse."

However, Tojo warned the Diet—summoned in special session to approve emergency war measures—of the dangers of ever-optimism.

"A war remains waiting to be fought," he said.

The premier reiterated assertions Japan had declared war only after exhausting all possible means of a peaceful settlement, and charged the United States and Great Britain with responsibility for the conflict.

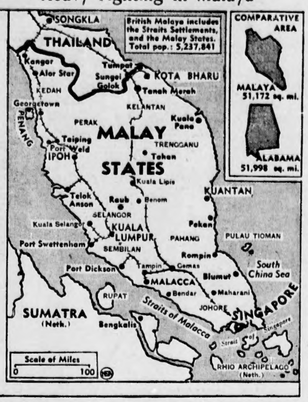

SAFEGUARD "PRESTIGE"

"Japan, though ardent in her desire for peace, had no course left her but to rise up with arms to safeguard her prestige." Tojo said.

Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo, who also blamed the United States and Britain for the war, said "All Asiatic peoples had come forward to co-operate closely with Japan, realizing our real objective is to secure the emancipation and prosperity of the Far East."

Referring to Japan's relations with Soviet Russia, Togo said: "There is no change in the imperial government's attitude for ensuring security in the north . . . As for the Soviet government, they repeatedly have enunciated their intention is to abide by their neutrality pact with Japan."

Heavy Fighting In Malaya

Fierce fighting is raging in Malaya as British and Indian defenders battle Japanese invaders aiming at Singapore from Thailand. The British command announced today that Jap troops had smashed their way into southern Kedah, northwestern Malaya state, and were 40 miles along the road to Singapore, 400 miles away. Where the British forces were now standing is not clear, but on the east coast they are believed entrenched somewhere south of Kota Bharu, whose airdrome they have captured.

Married Men May Be Called For Service

By FRANK FLAHERTY

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—(CP)—How and to what extent the extension of manpower mobilization in Canada will apply to service in civilian capacities is one of the questions about which there is much speculation at the moment.

On the basis of recent statements by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Air Minister Power and Agriculture Minister Gardiner it is expected the powers contained in the National Resources Mobilization Act of 1940 will be applied on much wider scale than hitherto early in the new year, if not before.

MORE MEN

Insofar as the government's plans may involve calling more men to the armed services for home defence the machinery for that already exists in the Department of National War Services.

So far only single men and widowers without children between the ages of 21 and 25 have been called for compulsory military training. As a large number of voluntary enlistments take place from men in those classes the potential number of men in them is limited and may be exhausted some time next year. This depends on the extent to which the monthly calls are increased.

When that happens it is expected the age limit for compulsory calls may be raised to 30 or 45 years. Married men up to a certain age may be called, although the disposition so far seems to have been to regard the calling of single men in the older age classes as a more desirable way than the calling of married men.

It is when the government attempts to provide men for vital civilian war jobs that it will be breaking new ground and there has been no official indication yet as to what procedure will be followed.

The authorities are known to be concerned about maintaining a sufficient number of men on farms to keep up food production, and also securing sufficient help to keep the expanding war manufacturing industries running at peak capacity.

It is there that selective service may be applied to women as well as men.

WOMEN MAY SERVE

It is believed here the government may take the responsibility of saying what jobs can be filled by women instead of men, and then remove the men who can be replaced by women to purely masculine jobs for which they are best fitted.

If that is done it is certain to raise problems of pay which will call for adjustment. For instance, if a married man owning a house and making various payments out of his income is to be asked to go to another job in another part of the country he will want to be paid enough to enable him to keep up his payments on his insurance and his mortgage.

Naval Officer Is Home On Leave

Rising from the rank of seaman to a commission as a sub-lieutenant in His Majesty's senior service, Thomas McCulloch, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. McCulloch, 42 Shasta Apts., was home on leave this week. He has been in the Royal Canadian Navy since last March, prior to which time he was petty officer boy instructor in the sea cadets here. He attended Eastwood public and high schools.

Japs May Use "Schools" Tiny Two-Man Subs

few yards" of an American ship before it was destroyed.

Submarines the size of the Japanese two-man craft are too small to operate over distances greater than a few hundred miles. Naval experts assume that those engaged in the attack against Pearl harbor were operating from a mother ship stationed out at sea. This ship, probably a large, reconditioned freighter, would be large enough to carry several of these baby subs, naval experts said.

NO RADICAL DESIGN

It was assumed that the mother ship carries them within cruising range of their objective and then lowers them into the sea. That would present no technical problem, since the U.S. crane ship Kearsarge has cranes that can lift 200-ton weights.

Naval observers believe the baby subs are miniatures of regular submarines, without the embodiment of any radical departures in design.

Once in the water they would proceed to their target with battery-driven electric motors driving them at an estimated eight or nine knots below the surface. The standard Diesel-type engines would give them 12 or 13 knots on the surface.

The chief asset of such tiny craft is their ability to operate in shallow waters where a larger submarine would be forced to the surface. It would also be easier for submarines of such size to get through harbor defences. Once within striking distance of their prey they would loose smaller, probably 10 foot, torpedoes. They would not have to carry the standard 20-foot torpedoes because they attack at shorter range.

FIVE DAY LIMIT

Naval experts estimate that two-man submarines would be able to stay at sea five days before returning to the mother ship or base. Living quarters are extremely cramped, and the amount of supplies and fuel is limited.

One naval official states: "It is an interesting commentary on the Japanese mind that men will be found for such missions. Should the mother ship, on extended operation, be sunk or be prevented by enemy action from keeping the rendezvous the crews of the subs would not have a chance."

SUB "MOTHER SHIP" WAS NEAR HAWAII

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP)—The United States Navy department indicated today, in making public details of the Japanese two-man submarine which participated in the raid on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, that a Japanese "mother ship" or ships had approached within about 100 miles of the Island of Oahu to make the surprise attack. The midget submarines, one of which was sunk during the Pearl Harbor raid, have a cruising radius of approximately 200 miles at low speed, the navy said, and "there are indications that the submarine captured on the Island of Oahu had made a run of 100 miles to join in the attack."

This would mean that a submarine mother ship was probably about 100 miles away from the great naval base at Pearl Harbor in order to let the underwater craft carry out its mission.

U.S. Determined Defend Liberty President Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(CP)—President Roosevelt told his countrymen Monday night, on the 150th anniversary of the Bill of Rights, they are faced with an attempt to cancel out a "great upsurge of human liberty" embodied in that document and to impose again "absolute authority and despotic rule."

But he declared that "we will not, under any threat, or in the face of any danger, surrender the guarantees of liberty our forefathers framed for us in our Bill of Rights."

The President spoke during a broadcast program commemorating the appending to the United States constitution 150 years ago of the first 10 amendments which guaranteed, among other things, freedom of press, speech and worship.

ISSUE OF WAR

Americans are solemnly determined, Mr. Roosevelt said, that "no power or combination of powers of this earth" shall shake their hold upon their fundamental guarantees of liberty.

"The issue of our time," he said, "the issue of the war in which we are engaged, is the issue forced upon the decent, self-respecting peoples of the earth by the aggressive dogmas of this attempted revival of barbarism; this proposed return to tyranny; this effort to impose again upon the peoples of the world doctrines of absolute obedience, and of dictatorial rule, and of the suppression of truth, and of the oppression of conscience, which the free nations of the earth have long ago rejected.

"What we face is nothing more nor less than an attempt to overthrow and to cancel out the great upsurge of human liberty of which the American bill of right is the fundamental document; to force the peoples of the earth, and among them the peoples of this continent, to accept again the absolute authority and despotic rule from which the courage and the resolution and the sacrifices of their ancestors liberated them many, many years ago."

This attempt could succeed, the President declared firmly, only if those who inherited the gift of liberty "had lost the manhood to preserve it."

FIXED DETERMINATION

The determination of this generation to preserve liberty, he declared, is as fixed and certain as that of an earlier generation of Americans to win it.

"We covenant with each other before all the world," Mr. Roosevelt declared, "that having taken up arms in the defence of liberty, we will not lay them down before liberty is once again secure in the world we live in. For that security we pray; for that security we act—now and forever more."

No date in the history of freedom means more to liberty-loving men in all liberty-loving countries than Dec. 15, 1791, Mr. Roosevelt said. The adoption then of a declaration of human rights influenced the thinking of all mankind, he said. Even today, with the exception of Germany, Italy and Japan, probably four-fifths of the people of the world, he said, support its principles, teachings and glorious results.

AXIS OBJECTIVE

But in 1933, Mr. Roosevelt continued, a political clique came to power in Germany and the goal of these "political and moral tigers" was the overthrow throughout the world of the human liberty of which the American bill of rights was "the mother charter".

Truths self-evident to Thomas Jefferson and six succeeding generations of Americans were hateful to these men, Mr. Roosevelt said. In their place, Hitler and his fellows proposed a doctrine that the individual human has no right by virtue of his humanity, no right to a soul, a mind, a tongue, or a trade of his own, or to live where he pleases, or marry the woman he loves; that his duty is one of obedience only to Adolf Hitler.

Mitchell Named Labor Minister Ottawa Cabinet

Quebec's representation in the cabinet."

The statement said the duties he faced as labor minister had placed a considerable strain on Mr. McLarty's health. His transfer to a "less arduous portfolio" would relieve that strain.

"Apart from this," the statement continued, "the Prime Minister is strongly of the opinion that too much importance, and that more than ever at a time of war, could not be attached to the representation of labor's point of view in the government.

"Mr. King said: 'I am certain that the confidence of labor in the government's desire to protect its right and further its interest will be increased by having, as minister of labor, one who throughout his life has been so clearly identified with the labor movement.'"

A trade union leader of long experience, Mr. Mitchell, during the Bennett administration sat as a Labor member of the House of Commons for Hamilton East.

WIDE EXPERIENCE

He had wide administrative experience which would prove valuable in his new post as labor minister. During the past six years he had been successively director of the Labor Department's Labor Transference Branch, secretary of the National Labor Supply Council, chairman of the Industrial Disputes Inquiry Commission and chairman of the National War Labor Board.

"As a veteran (of the First Great War) as a workingman, as a labor leader, as a parliamentarian and as an administrator, Mr. Mitchell will bring new strength to the government in the performance of its ever-growing task," Mr. King said.

Mr. Casgrain, first elected to the House of Commons in 1917 and returned at each subsequent election, was appointed state secretary in May, 1940. Last night's statement said:

"The prime minister said he regarded Mr. Casgrain's appointment to the superior court of his native province as a tribute not less to Mr. Casgrain's years of public service than to his professional abilities and attainments."

MITCHELL SWORN IN

The cabinet changes were made after a meeting of the cabinet Monday afternoon. In the absence of the Earl of Athlone who was inspecting war plants in Montreal yesterday, Mr. Mitchell was sworn as a privy councillor and to his new office by Sir Lyman Duff, deputy to the governor-general.

COL. THOMAS VIEN MAY JOIN CABINET

OTTAWA, Dec. 16—(CP)—In the wake of cabinet shifts which sent Hon. Norman McLarty from the labor department to the post of state secretary and brought Hon. Humphrey Mitchell to the helm of the labor department, it was reported authoritatively today that the next new cabinet member would be Col. Thomas Vien, Liberal member of parliament for Montreal-Outremont.

The appointment of former State Secretary Pierre F. Casgrain to the Quebec judiciary leaves a vacancy in the French-Canadian cabinet membership and it was said here that Mr Vien, deputy speaker of the House of Commons has the "inside track" on a cabinet post.

STATE SECRETARY

Just where he will get into the cabinet has not been made clear. One suggestion heard in speculative fashion about Ottawa is that Mr. McLarty's appointment is only a temporary one; that he will be involved in another shift with Col. Vein succeeding him as state secretary.

The appointment of Mr. Mitchell as labor minister and the shifting of Mr. Casgrain to the Quebec bench and Mr. McLarty to the state secretary's post were announced only last night.

Mr. Mitchell was chairman of the national war labor board, a post which it is believed he will retain.

LABOR CONGRESS ASSURES SUPPORT

OTTAWA, Dec. 16—(CP)—A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor in a press statement today assured Labor Minister Mitchell of "the fullest support of the Canadian Congress of Labor" in establishing "a consistent and progressive labor policy."

Mr. Mosher in his statement said: "The workers seek no favors; they do, however, insist upon a square deal, and can be expected to give of their best only under conditions which ensure just treatment by both government and employers."

5,000 Men To Report Jan. 8 For Training

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Divisional registrars have been instructed to call out 5,000 men for compulsory military training under the National Resources Mobilization Act to report to training centres on Jan. 8, National War Services department announced today.

The department said 3,300 of the 5,000 men will have had no previous training while 1,700 will be from those who have undergone 30 days' training. Only category A men will be sent to the training centres by the National Defence Department.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, associate deputy minister of the department, said the number of men who had reported for training since compulsory training was introduced in 1940 totalled 106,012.

REPORT JANUARY 9

At the Grande Prairie, Alta., training camp, the men will report on Jan. 9 instead of Jan. 8 as will be the case at other training establishments.

The 5,000 men required in the latest call-up of those between 21 and 24 years will be found as follows:

Prince Edward Island, 46; Nova Scotia, 211; New Brunswick, 194; Quebec, 1,543; Ontario, 1,578; Manitoba, 332; Saskatchewan, 417; Alberta, 379; British Columbia, 300.

Gen. LaFleche said the 106,012 men who had already been accepted for training were found as follows:

Prince Edward Island, 919; Nova Scotia, 4,146; New Brunswick, 4,031; Quebec, 33,957; Ontario, 33,734; Manitoba, 7,498; Saskatchewan, 8,562; Alberta, 8,200; British Columbia, 6,945.

Gen. LaFleche said men liable to call-up were reminded that if any change occurred in address or matrimonial status they should inform their divisional registrar. Men who fail to do so are liable to imprisonment or fine.

MAY EXTEND AGE LIMIT

Extension of the age limit for men liable to the compulsory call-up has been predicted as a means of increasing the number of trained reserves in Canada, but the announcement today covered only the usual category of single men or childless widowers of 21 to 24 years as at July, 1940, and those becoming 21 since that time.

Hon. Humphrey Mitchell

Prime Minister King announced yesterday that Hon. Norman McLarty has taken over the portfolio of Secretary of State, and is succeeded as Minister of Labor by Mr. Humphrey Mitchell. The new minister is an electrician by trade and an ardent trades unionist. He was born in England and came to Canada as a young man. During the first great war he served in the navy, returning to Canada at the close.

For 22 years Mr. Mitchell was secretary of the Hamilton Trades Council, and president for two terms. He served as an alderman of the city for three consecutive terms, and was elected to the House of Commons as a Labor member in East Hamilton in 1931, being unsuccessful at the election in 1935. In 1936 he joined the staff of the department of labor, becoming successively secretary of the inter-departmental committee on labor co-ordination, secretary of the national labor supply council, chairman of the industrial disputes inquiry commission, and chairman of the national war labor board.

Mr. Mitchell therefore brings to the department broad experience gained as a working tradesman, a union official and an administrator. His selection is particularly fortunate at a time when the labor supply of the country must be re-aligned on a broad scale in order to secure the maximum output of munitions and other vital supplies. He has the reputation of being a hard worker—an indispensable qualification for the head of the department in these circumstances.

Growing Edmonton

The official census figures, just given out at Ottawa, show Edmonton has a present population of 92,404. Compared with 79,197 in 1931, this is a gain of 13,207 over the ten year period. The average approximates the showing of returns from the house to house counts made by civic officials, and which have reflected a gain of from 1,200 to about 1,700 per year for several years.

This is a fairly rapid rate of growth. It is particularly gratifying because Edmonton has not in this decade experienced an industrial boom, or any speculative condition likely to cause an abnormal influx. Aside from war work, the gain has been accompanied by a general expansion of business and industry, and is therefore likely to continue. Edmonton is growing because the north country is being developed, vacant land being put into cultivation and the opportunities for making a livelihood here are increasing accordingly.

A big population may not be a desirable end in itself, and an abnormally rapid growth is always to be suspected; but growth which marches with increased production and trade is both desirable and safe.

Edmonton and Calgary have long since ceased to quarrel about their respective claims to first position in Alberta, but this position has now been very definitely established by Edmonton. During the ten years the southern city grew something less than 4,000, or less a third of the advance registered by Edmonton. Calgary's present population is 87,264. There is room for congratulations to both centres, for the gain in either case has been substantial and has come without boom propaganda.

Back To The Farm By Order?

Speaking at Port Arthur, Hon. J. G. Gardiner said "Before twelve months have passed the whole manpower of Canada will be organized". He did not amplify the statement, more than to add that "something is being done right now about farm labor", as the result of which "we will not be figuring the cost of the war in dollars and cents, but in human lives, as is being done in many other countries".

Speaking at Montreal, Major Power, minister for air, went somewhat farther. "We will organize man-power for the defence of our shores, so as not to be a liability to our friends and allies," and also so "adjust matters that "every man and woman will carry on the work which will be of the greatest possible benefit to the state," whether in the fighting forces, in factories or on farms.

These are plain statements that the authority conferred by the Mobilization Act is to be used to redistribute the labor of the Dominion in part with direct attention to the need of stepping up food production. For the reason that "it will require all the effort we can muster to keep up with the requests we have from Britain for food".

There has never been a food shortage in Canada. It is difficult therefore for Canadians to sense the fact that Britain is not only threatened by a possible future shortage, but is actually suffering now from a shortage of many kinds of food "concentrates", such as cheese, bacon, butter, canned milk. The more difficult because enemy raiders are now sinking fewer food ships than they were a few months ago.

The brief but meaningful statements from Mr. Gardiner shatter any comfortable supposition that supplies are now reaching the old lands in needed quantities. So far from that, sufficient supplies are not even being produced—remarkably as Canadian farmers have responded to the call. It is in Canada and the United States the bulk of these essential foods must be produced.

As "all the effort we can muster" is needed on the farm front, and as the farm has been losing labor rapidly to the industrial centres, a compulsory "back to the land" movement is apparently being outlined for those not required in the defence forces or in industry vital to the country or to its war effort.

A Vancouver motorist who was convicted of tearing along a street at 38 miles an hour during a blackout was let off with a fine of $50. Unless he was rushing some one to a hospital or on some other emergency mission, the punishment would more nearly fit the crime if he had been sent to jail for the duration of the war.

Thailand, which gave the impression that it was ready to take on any force the Japanese might send against it, surrendered in a day. It is now being used as a base for attacks upon Singapore and the Burma road. There is plenty of room to suspect that Thailand was not defeated altogether in the field, and that fifth columnists had undermined its defences before the enemy struck.

The Russians have recaptured Tikhvin, thus re-establishing railway connection between Moscow and Leningrad. The Nazis are said to have lost 7,000 men killed in trying to hold the place. They probably lost still more heavily in the hard fighting by which they took it some weeks ago. That thrust was acclaimed by Berlin as having sealed the fate of Leningrad. On Berlin's showing therefore the recapture of the junction is a victory of great importance to the Russians.

Police officials at Manila say Japanese air raiders were guided to their objectives on Luzon Island by signal lights shown by sympathizers on the ground. It seems likely that raiders on other islands received similar assistance, for in most or all those attacked Japanese form a considerable element of the population. Canadian authorities would do well to remind any parties concerned that the punishment for this offence in Canada is death. If the warning is not needed it can do no harm.

President Van Horne of the C.P.R. has replied to a letter written him by Wm. Cust, on behalf of the farmers of this district, asking for better freight rates on products to Calgary and British Columbia points. The president says: "I do not think that any rate within reason would enable either Regina or Edmonton to ship any considerable amount of produce to British Columbia, which province is already producing practically all it requires, and with the exception of a very little flour and an occasional shipment of cattle, hardly any produce is likely to go into British Columbia from the eastern provinces. If anybody at Edmonton has any wheat or other produce to ship to the British Columbia points, and can show that he can find a market for it there at a price that will afford a profit after paying a reasonable rate, we will do the best we can to help him to take advantage of it, but I feel sure that your market for wheat must be eastward."

Japan Has Been Our Enemy Ten Years

Drastic Measures Necessary in U. S. To Combat Malevolence of the Axis

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Nazi-Japanese war against the United States was declared last week, but it has been going on for many years. It was begun by the Japanese ten years ago when, on Sept. 18, 1931, by a surprise attack on China like that on Pearl Harbor, they violated without warning their treaties with the United States. The Nazi war began shortly after the rise of Hitler in 1933, when the Nazi party set out to organize itself in all the countries of this hemisphere and in conjunction with the agents of the German government prepared a hostile conspiracy against the internal order and the external security of the Americas. Their actions constituted the fact that no contract, no law, and no consideration of honor, but only their calculations and their preparations would determine when we would have to choose to surrender or to fight.

W. Lippmann

They have now not only declared war against us. They have declared their alliance against us. This alliance was first established on Nov. 25, 1936, in the so-called Anti-Comintern Pact. It was reinforced on Sept. 27, 1940, in the Tripartite Pact. There is no shadow of doubt that they have long been our enemies. There is no possible doubt that they are our mortal enemies.

Grand Alliance

To their declaration of war we have responded by recognizing the existence of a state of war. To their alliance, now openly avowed, there is only one possible response, the formation of a grand alliance against them. We should enter at once into an alliance with the British Commonwealth, with Soviet Russia, with China, with the Netherlands, pledging one another to fight as Allies in the war, to work as allies in the settlement which follows, and in the enforcement and the maintenance of the peace. To this grand alliance we should invite all to adhere who resist our enemies.

We must not again make the cardinal mistake we made in 1918, the mistake of fighting a separate war as an associate rather than as an ally. It was that mistake which destroyed our influence at the peace conference, and robbed us of the fruits of victory.

In 1917 the formation of an alliance did not appear to be necessary. This time it is indispensable and imperative because this is in fact a world war—on all the continents and on all the oceans. Victory depends upon the ability of British and American sea and air power to maintain communications with our landlocked allies —the Russians and the Chinese, and eventually with the occupied peoples of Europe. To do this an alliance is necessary in order to establish a common strategy, and the necessary unity of command in the various theatres of war.

Thus it is absolutely essential that the naval and air power, and the merchant shipping of the allies should be employed under a British-American supreme command, and in close concert with Russia and China. The joint use of sea power, especially now that our margin of superiority has been temporarily reduced, is the quickest way to repair our losses. For when the quantity of immediately available shipping is greater than we had counted on, the best remedy is to cure to improve their quality by a joint use of the two navies in the most economical and efficient way. To do this can be done by allies who feel themselves bound closely together and are willing, therefore, to fight a common battle.

Resources Pool

Since the character of the war requires the formation of an alliance and its corollary, which is unity of direction and a pooling of resources, there will have to be made grave and momentous decisions. Many of them will be too grave and too momentous to be taken only by the President as Commander-in-Chief, and his official advisers. Since in the nature of things these decisions will often have to be taken secretly, so as not to inform the enemy, they cannot be explained to Congress and debated in Congress.

It is necessary, therefore, that at the highest level of decision, there should be present—not occasionally but continually —men of great eminence who are not immersed in the details of administration. They should include at least two Senators and two Congressmen, and then some one —perhaps the retired Chief Justice, Mr. Hughes—to give weight and seasoned wisdom and detachment to the councils in which fateful decisions are made . . .

Since this is a total war, it is necessary to face frankly, and without being frightened by labels, the measures that total war requires. We have for instance to stop talking about "defense" and to talk only of war and victory.

That being the case, let us now call a spade a spade. Let us cease to confuse our minds about "price control." Let us talk about the reality which is that in a total mobilization the use of all essential and scarce goods has to be rationed. Let us, therefore, prepare to establish rationing, which is the only known way of guaranteeing to all the people the necessities of life at a just price, and of eliminating waste and of conserving supplies.

Let us stop talking about "labor problems" as between labor unions and private management. Let us accept in principle the conscription of all able-bodied men and women, and of all wealth, and the hands jointly of employers and labor leaders the duty of intensifying to the limits of their endurance the production of war materials.

Censorship

Let us face the fact that no war can be conducted without censorship, and let us stop doing badly what has to be done because we do not like to look at it directly.

There will have to be censorship, and the problem is to get one which works well—which keeps information from the enemy and yet keeps the American people informed. Instead of pretending to ourselves that we are not going to have a censorship, and thereby having one nevertheless which works badly, let us say that we are going to have a censor and let us see that it is a good one.

We can do this without the loss of any of our rights and without risking the loss of public criticism, which is so essential to good government, if the press and radio are called upon openly to assist in setting up the censorship and are continually represented in the administration of the censorship. Trained and responsible newspaper men and radio directors are quite able to recognize and enforce the distinction between information which is off the record and information that can be published. Then professional honor and their personal integrity are bound up with this distinction, and in a free country a good censorship consists in acknowledging the fact that more things have to be off the record in time of war than in time of peace.

Civilian Defence

Let us face also the fact that the purpose of "civilian defence" is to enable the civilian population to do its full duty to the fighting forces. This, and not the education or the reform of civilians, is the purpose of civilian defence. It must be organized so that civilians can in emergencies and disasters take care of themselves, and not bother the military. It must be organized so that nothing is wasted by civilians which is needed by the Army and the Navy. It must be so that we shall find the civilians cease to regard themselves as spectators at a football game and go to work doing for themselves things that, if they are done in that way will divert time, energy, attention, and supplies from the conduct of the war.

Lilliputian Empire Of Japanese

Wonderfully Fertile Pacific Islands Serve Nippon as Natural Bases For War

By CHARLES HERBERT HUESTIS

Hardly had the cannon's opening roar assailed the ears of the people of France and Belgium in 1914 when Japan sent her ships southbound and took possession of the large group of islands of the Pacific known as Micronesia. Before the Spanish-American war these islands belonged to Spain. After the war Germany bought and took the ones she wanted, the Philippines and Guam, and Spain sold the rest to Germany for $4,500,000. After the war they were placed under a Japanese mandate with the understanding, of course, that they were not to be fortified. Japan, conscious of their value commercially and perhaps strategically, has been spending a considerable amount of money on the islands, so much so that the League of Nations Mandate Commission politely requested Japan to explain the disproportion between the sums of money spent on equipment of the ports of certain islands under the Japanese mandate and the volume of commercial activity. One reason for this enquiry was that rumors were abroad that Japan was quietly fortifying some of the islands.

1,400 Islands

Mr. Willard Price, who has been travelling for some years in the Far East and who spent three months in the Pacific islands, writes of his visit and tells some interesting stories about the islands, their inhabitants and their customs. For instance he states about fourteen hundred islands of considerable relative size and about one thousand more which are mere coral reefs rising above the surface of the Pacific. The greater proportion, even of the larger islands, are represented on the map by tiny specks. The amazing island of Hawaii is 2,700 miles wide and 1,300 miles deep.

Mr. Price helps us to visualize the strategic importance of this network of islands in the present war between Japan and the United States and Britain.

"Think first of the Atlantic," he says, "imagine a continuous chain of more than two thousands islands stretching from Labrador clear to Brazil . . . Imagine these islands to be in the possession of the United States and fortified. Would they not be a pretty effective wall against any considerable interference from Europe?" No wonder the mandate commission became alarmed. When Mr. Price wrote in 1936 he said that at that time he could find no signs of fortifications or even of military preparations.

Perfect Naval Base

As a matter of fact he says any construction of fortifications on many of the islands is entirely unnecessary. The island of Truk, for instance, is a perfect naval base. Of this island group he writes: "It's a myriad of high rocky islands in a forty-mile-wide lagoon protected by a reef pierced by only a few passages which could be easily mined and constitute a perfect weapon turned out of nature's own armament factory."

I suspect we shall be hearing about Truk one of these days.

In the midst of this maze of Lilliputian islands lies Guam which belongs to the United States. Nearest to the Philippines, Singapore, Australia and the Dutch East Indies is the island of Palu. "Palu" says Mr. Price, "is a warning finger." It is also the advance guard of the source of oil in the Dutch Indies from which Japan gets half its normal supply.

Guam is highly important. Situated in the midst of Japan's island empire it is, as Price says, a warning finger in the fire. If it gets burned, the American body politic may roar with pain and pride and proceed to do something foolish." He thought Uncle Sam would be wise to sell the island to Japan and thus forestall trouble in the future.

Some time ago the National Geographic magazine published an illustrated article dealing with the people and customs of these islands. To some of the islands Christian missionaries have come and one is described as "an island paradise where going to church and smiling seem to be the chief industries."

On other islands the ancient tabus still survive. The author and his wife were being entertained at dinner at a home on the island of Ponape where his guide, a young man named Tol lived with his widowed mother and sister. There were three fireplaces in the yard and Tol at once set up two more so that soon five pots were boiling each on its own fireplace.

The author asked why the dinner was not cooked in one pot. "Tabu," said Tol. "Each person, one pot. Man cannot eat from woman's pot." "But why," asked the author, "He no longer head of the house," said Tol. "Be slave of woman."

Another important island is Yap. The people of Yap are like the Prince Edward Islanders to their province of "the Island." Yap means "The Land." To the Yappains any other part of the world is negligible. The author visited the native educational authorities, the children wear clothes in school; but as soon as school is out they strip off their garments, roll them up and tuck them under their arms and fly like brown streaks into the tropic sunlight. To wear clothes in the village is considered hardly decent and puting on airs.

The Japanese have been doing wonders for these islands. There is government experimental station and farm at Ponape. Two hundred and thirty-six different kinds of fruit, grains and vegetables have been brought from the outside world and planted there. No skill is needed in growing anything. "We have rain every day of the year here," said the superintendent of the station. "You can grow a tree from a walking stick."

The other day Ripley in "Believe it or Not," had a picture of a telephone pole sprouting branches. The author saw one in Ponape.

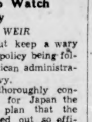

All Eyes On Herr Hitler

Policy of United States Is to Fight Japan But Also Watch Germany

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Repel the Japanese, but keep a wary eye on Hitler—this is the policy being followed today by the American administration, the army and the navy.

The Americans are thoroughly convinced that in preparing for Japan the magnificently audacious plan that the little brown stooges carried out so efficiently—and treacherously—a week ago Sunday, the Germans wanted to create a diversion serious enough to force the American authorities to strip the Atlantic and rush to repair the damage in the Pacific and avenge it.

Harold L. Weir

Since the work of vengeance has been without any reinforcements from the Atlantic, for the main route to the Philippines is now largely in the hands of the Japanese —there will be less temptation to forget that, outside the main area of Singapore, Hitler and his Nazis are still the main show.

Hitler's Promises

In order to induce the Japanese to go all out and risk their precious material, Hitler must have promised them powerful support.

The question is, what form is this support going to take?

Several moves are now open to the Nazis now that they have admitted they cannot take Moscow this winter and must wait until Spring.

Russian announcements claiming that they now have control of the air over their front, suggests strongly that the Germans have withdrawn some of their air force from that region.

We might expect, then, a new air onslaught against Britain or an intensified airplane, plus submarine, plus surface campaign in the Atlantic or actually against the American Atlantic seaboard.

Defeated in his frantic effort to reach the oil of the Caspian, Hitler's marshals, by shortening their lines and withdrawing divisions from Russia, may amass a powerful force for a campaign all along or in special parts of the Mediterranean.

This might mean a smash at Turkey, with the idea of reaching the Caucasus along the southern shore of the Black Sea, or turning down towards Iraq and eventually Iran, or driving straight south on Syria, Palestine and the Suez canal.

It may mean an intensified effort to cross the Mediterranean and get into North Africa in time to reinforce General Rommel's battered divisions before they have to give more ground.

Vichy's Part

For this latter purpose, or, indeed, for the purpose of an all-out attack on America, Hitler desperately needs the French fleet.

There are those who believe that Japan's success at Pearl Harbor may have been the final argument in convincing the men of Vichy that American entrance into the war can be accounted as the Americans are blunderers anyway.

Apropos of this view, despatches from Vichy indicate a significant change in the attitude of Petain and his Germanophiles.

For a day or so after the Japanese attack, we are told, Vichy was jumpy and uncertain. The old traditional friendship with the United States appeared to be forcing its way to the surface of French emotions.

But tenseness increased and anger began to be shown when it was reported that a small French freighter had been torpedoed in the Mediterranean, "presumably by a British submarine." Vichy has announced that "measures have been taken to end such cowardly outrages in these waters."

The Indo-Chinese situation is another cause of tension.

The announcement that the Americans had seized the Normandie provoked sinister if subdued threats against the United States.

It is a fair statement of the case to say that Vichy's first astonishment is rapidly being converted into a general shifting towards the Axis.

Menace

While the Germans could easily institute surprise assaults upon the American and Canadian coasts without this French fleet they would have difficulty in maintaining a sustained attack.

Without the fleet and a fine French base like Bizerte or Oran to land at, the Germans and Italians would have still more difficulty in sending reinforcements across the British-controlled Mediterranean.

They can, however, take over Spain and Portugal any time they choose.

A somewhat sinister statement from Madrid that Spain would soon announce its position towards the war with the United States is taken to be a threat that the Franco Spaniards, despite more than generous handling from the United States, may have decided to proclaim non-belligerence favorable to the Axis and allow German troops to pass freely.

This would mean a siege of Gibraltar and the unquestioned control of the Straits there by at least some German forces.

It would mean the taking over of French Morocco, probably of Algeria as well. It might mean taking over Dakar and Portugal as a step towards continental United States.

In any case, many possibilities are open to Adolf Hitler. And those who know the man and his methods best are convinced that he will not wait long to act.

Holding Russians Back

Editor Bulletin: Your Mr. Weir finds it hard to conceal his admiration for the Nazi beasts marched to slaughter in Russia, he was all for Russian collapse, Finding it hard to conceal his hatred of the Red Army, time and again he called upon Stalin to surrender: "It would be no disgrace" being his plea. Often, he got quite a distance along the defeatist but for a few weeks has been sadly bogged down.

But, hurrah, now he has something. Because Stalin has not given him full details on Soviet strategy in the Far East crisis, he wants obviously asks: "What is holding the Russian back?"

It took Canada five months to declare war on Finland, Hungary and Rumania yet Weir could not wait for Ottawa five minutes now. While do-nothings like himself sat smug for five months while Russia bore the brunt of the Nazi might, Weir wants the Soviet people to give us again or be charged with "ingratitude."

Mr. Weir has been so consistently haywire in his criticism of Soviet policy that his present spleen can be taken as an indication that Russia will act properly and in due time all will be for the best. Until Canada has proper diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union instead of the present bourgeois official attitude that ignores our powerful Russian ally we cannot expect this to be lost upon the Russians. There are too many cynics like Weir blindering at Russia's every move, and may explain what is holding the Russians back.

Alberta District News In Brief

Jury Exonerates All Persons In Soldier's Death

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

LACOMBE, Dec. 16.—All persons connected with the accident were completely exonerated by the jury which inquired into the death of Pte. Douglas H. Smith of Red Deer and Ottawa, whose body was found on the Calgary-Edmonton highway near Lacombe on Saturday evening, November 1. The verdict, brought in at noon Monday, was as follows:

"We find that Private D. H. Smith died in the Lacombe hospital Monday evening, November 3, from a head and other injuries received about 6:30 p.m., November 1, while lying on the main road about five miles north of Lacombe, under the influence of liquor, when he was accidentally run over by a truck driven by J. Hafso."

Members of the jury were P. W. Pratt (foreman), A. J. Price, W. Docherty, I. O. Vickerson, H. L. Freedman and E. L. Burrows. The inquest was in charge of Coroner Dr. F. D. Locke.

The inquest had been adjourned for a week because of the absence of Pte. John Mauna, C.A.S.C., who gave important evidence when the inquiry was resumed on Monday morning. Mauna testified that he had left camp at Red Deer on the afternoon of the tragedy and met Private Smith in a downtown coffee shop. Mauna had purchased a bottle of rum and Smith had a bottle of gin in his possession, he said, and they had started to hitch-hike north. Smith was enroute to Edmonton, while Mauna was going to Wetaskiwin.

At Blackfalds, to which point they were given a ride, both went into the beer parlor and had a glass of beer, Mauna said, and when leaving Blackfalds, Smith appeared to be "feeling pretty good."

After staying in Lacombe for a few minutes, they were picked up once more by a motorist who left them at a point five miles north of town on the highway. Here they started north again on foot and Smith, according to Mauna, drank the balance of the liquor. Smith began to stagger, the witness declared, and he (Mauna) had tried to steady him up. They walked about half a mile up the highway in that manner and then Smith had laid down on the side of the road. Mauna said that he had picked his companion up but Smith had fallen down and tore the button from his (Smith's) coat.

Mauna declared that he had pulled the soldier over to the east ditch and left him there.

Charles Congdon, Edmonton truck driver, told of being flagged down by other witnesses at the scene of the tragedy at about 6:15 p.m. on Saturday. With others, he had assisted in placing the injured soldier in a car for transportation to the Lacombe hospital, where Smith died the following Monday without regaining consciousness.

Resolutions were drafted asking for a set price of $1.25 a bushel at point of delivery, with a quota of 1,000 bushels and a parity price on bread. The convention pledged full support to the government in winning the war.

The evening meeting was opened at 8:30 p.m. by Mr. Coady introducing the speaker of the evening, J. L. MacMillan, vice-president of the section, who spoke on the need of organization among the farmers.

Soviet Youths Training For Parachute War

relish their game. When they lay still, as they did occasionally, they were indistinguishable from the glistening white terrain. Creeping through the paths of a frosted forest they formed the final assault, they looked like a herd of weird polar animals.

Three explosions, which sent the earth and snow sky high, symbolized the successful completion of their mission.

Each was only one of several exercises which the diminutive, peppery, 40-year-old commandant, Col. Dimitri Vleyshoovy, put on for us. We saw the cadets in bayonet practice, in the gymnasium, in barracks and in the classroom and receiving practical instruction in the use of the parachute and air-borne artillery.

NO JUMPING

There was no parachute jumping on this occasion but the commander informed us that leaping from an airplane is only a minor phase of the intense training a parachutist is obliged to go through. He himself wore an enameled decoration in the shape of a parachute with the number "25" attached in recognition of the fact that he had made more than that number of parachute leaps.

Although little hitherto has been heard about the activities of air-borne troops in the Russo-German war, Col. Vleyshoovy informed us that the Russians utilized "parachute troops" on a number of occasions, especially southwest of Moscow.

Parachutists, he said, may serve one of three purposes:

1—Impede the bringing up of enemy reserves.

2—During an advance to assist in a break-through in any given direction.

3—Disorganize the enemy rear.

When employed against an advancing army the chances of such diversionists ever rejoining their own main force is very small. This is one reason why the Red army accepts the toughest and most dependable candidates for this hazardous job.

In the school, which is one of a number devoted to the training of parachutist officers, there is a vastly higher percentage of party members than in most other branches of the army. Under the Bolshevik system it is traditional to put party members in the most difficult and most hazardous jobs. Their party background makes their loyalty unquestioned.

The commandant said the Germans have tried parachute descents on various occasions in this war but never with more than 600 men in one landing. One of the biggest, he recalled, was the descent of 300 Germans near Vyazma, west of Moscow, shortly after the opening of the October offensive toward the capital. The whole party was annihilated.

In a majority of cases the Germans drop 15 or 20 men, sometimes in civilian clothes or Red army uniforms with the aim of sowing panic in the rear, the colonel claimed. He ridiculed Nazi claims of having captured Russian women parachutists asserting that while numerous women were used in auxiliary capacities none were serving as parachute fighters.

TRAINING RUSHED

Like most other reservists now undergoing training in Russia, these future leaders of air-borne troops are being rushed through a compressed course of training at wartime tempo. They are required to spend no less than 11 hours daily in training and study.

The academy, which is only a few months old, is beautifully situated on an embankment overlooking the frozen Volga, as is every military institution I have visited in this country. The things that struck me the most were the iron discipline, the excellent physical quality of the men and the good quality of their uniforms. Nearly all the cadets were between 19 and 25 years of age with a few older volunteers.

They were alert, responsive and obviously high spirited. All had volunteered for this service and other branches of the army. They were of several Soviet nationalities and were being given complete basic training in military tactics.

Here again, as often before, I saw plenty of evidence that the Red army gets special treatment in the matter of clothing and food. There was not a single cadet who was not well uniformed, and well shod. The food, which we sampled, was excellent and carefully calculated according to calory values. The officers were plainly proud of Russian pioneering in the science of parachute warfare.

McCoy Health Service

Acne is the medical name of an inflammatory skin disorder, usually referred to by the layman as "pimples." It produces the distressing crops of red pimples topped with pus which so often cause the boy or girl in the "teen age to feel embarrassment.

Such blemishes commonly appear on the face, but may also be present across the upper back. Squeezing or "picking" of the pimples may lead to an unsightly scarring of the skin. The disorder may be present over a period of years and the sufferer usually tries a variety of remedies during that time, with little or no success.

Acne is most likely to be found among those having oily skins and is often accompanied by an oily condition of the hair. Incorrect cleansing of the excess oil from the skin plays a part in helping to cause further pimples to appear.

The cause of acne are both internal and external—that is, they come from both the inside and the outside. Of the two, the internal causes are the more important. Any of the following causes may operate to produce the disorder: Continued constipation; overeating of sweets, the use of rich foods; lack of sunshine; and too little exercise.

Some of the outside factors which aid in prolonging the disorder are the excessive oil thrown out on the skin surface, which oil causes the skin to collect dirt easily; and also the tendency to squeeze the pimples and blackheads which serves to cause further irritation. Lack of proper cleansing of the skin and misguided treatment in the way of smearing on ointments, may also intensify the tendency to acne.

There is considerable evidence to believe that in a patient who has followed wrong habits of living. Nature attempts to bring about a general cleaning of the body during the "teen age at a time certain important glands are developing, and that acne may be a part of this cleansing process. However, the young person who has followed correct habits of living is able to go through this stage of development without embarrassing pimple. I believe that when they appear, they are a sign that the patient should change his wrong habits of living to better ones.

The following changes which will do the most good are: First the adoption of those measures which will bring about a thorough cleansing of the intestinal tract; second, the use of the fast, followed by a wholesome, simple diet; and third, the correct method of washing the affected areas, supplemented by local treatment if necessary.

The treatment of acne must be both local and constitutional and a number of measures must be used simultaneously, in order to bring about the most rapid results.

Constipation will usually be present and requires adequate measures for its correction. Those who are troubled with acne generally notice that the pimples are most profuse after they have allowed the intestinal elimination to remain sluggish. The patient may do a great deal to encourage a better functioning of the intestine through using a larger amount of the green leafy vegetables which provide bulk or roughage, and through taking vigorous physical exercise every day, each day of the type beneficial in strengthening the abdominal muscles.

In tomorrow's article I will discuss The Treatment of Acne.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters should not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1151 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Large Gain In Wheat Exports For 11 Months

OTTAWA Dec. 16 — (CP) — Trade Minister MacKinnon announced Monday night that "wheat has been the outstanding Canadian export" during the 11 months of 1941, with the value of shipments about $37,350,000 above the same period in 1940.

Value of flour shipments was up nearly $16,000,000.

"This represents an important contribution to the bread basket of the allied countries," said Mr. MacKinnon of the wheat and flour exports.

Total wheat exports were 178,-975,296 bushels with a value of $147,561,062, the minister said. The shipments were about 51,000,000 bushels more than in 1940.

FLOUR EXPORTS

"Flour figured prominently in the Canadian export trade in 1941 the total being 10,506,955 barrels at $41,094,119," the minister said in his statement. "This was about 4,000,000 barrels more than in 1940.

"Canada's war effort on the part of the home front can be substantially increased by looking carefully at the exports by groups during the 11 months of 1941."

The figures follow with 1940 figures in brackets:

Fish $36,383,355 ($28,197,627); furs $14,906,715 ($13,000,450); meats $74,-739,406 ($60,191,432); planks and boards $70,000,782 ($52,067,584); wood pulp $77,323,467 ($55,543,625), newsprint $140,313,546 ($138,963,-994); automobiles and parts $136,-687,104 ($51,653,212).

"Cheese, however, was down to $12,621,874 from $15,773,174 a year ago," the minister reported.

WHEAT PICK-UP

The pick-up in wheat shipments during the latter half of the 1940-41 crop year has been regarded by officials as a remarkable feature of the trade year, and Mr. MacKinnon's statement showed that heavy shipments of grain have continued.

Although destinations of specific Canadian products are no longer issued by the trade department, it was understood the bulk of wheat has gone to the United Kingdom. An unknown quantity of wheat obtained by Britain has been shipped to Russia.

Wheat exports in November totalled 22,105,053 bushels valued at $17,513,311.

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

EDMONTON got a swell fight card last night and Promoter Sid Beech of Vancouver took a terrific wallop on his wallet. In other words, Sid presented Edmontonians with a gift of close to a thousand dollars worth of fight entertainment, reports early today indicating that the loss on the card might run that high.

Owing to circumstances beyond the control of Beech, the fight ran into a lot of adverse factors. The date was bad, far from now until Christmas the amusement money around these parts will be mighty scarce. Monday is also a bad night for boxing here.

Another big disappointment was the response of the airmen in trading here. They didn't seem at all interested, although the Navy turned out a good number. Also missing were a large number of Edmonton's regular ringsiders, due probably to the fact that most of these men now are shouldering two or three extra war jobs that leave them hardly enough time to get a haircut let alone attend a fight.

However Sid Beech can send orchids to Lloydminster. No less than 28 fans made the 178-mile trip in from that town for the fight.

If there was a single fan who left the show last night feeling that he hadn't got full value for his money, he was the sort who never will be satisfied on this score by any fight card.

From the opening prelim to the final punch of the main event, all the fighters gave the very best they had. There wasn't a moment of stalling.

Lindsay gave convincing proof that he has not been over-rated. He seems to have just about everything needed to go after the world title in his division. Jimmy Chapman showed a vast improvement over his last bout here. He used his fists more and his feet less and the result was a much more exciting battle.

Both Loz Angeles boys, Espinosa and Melino, turned in good, honest fights. They shot the works and spared neither themselves nor their opponents. With such boys it is easy to see why Los Angeles fight clubs are making big money with the little fellows these days.

Such fighters will draw here much better than they did last night if properly timed in the future. However, transportation coats will take up all profits unless a system can be worked out to use the boys at Calgary on the same trip and possibly at Vancouver, too.

Unless such arrangements are made, it looks as if pro boxing is dead here for the duration of the war. No less than 20 per cent of last night's gross gate went to the Dominion as a war tax and another 10 per cent went to the Alberta government. There was a further 10 per cent war tax on all the railway tickets involved, so on the whole it can hardly be said that money spent by fans on the show did not do a lot to help our war effort.

Communique From Springfield

FROM John Ducey, rink manager for Eddie Shore at Springfield, comes a communique which announces that the fans down there are supporting Shore's Indians with all the wild fervor that Edmontonians used to exhibit back in the days when Duke Keats was at his height here.

Shore has started rink fever in Springfield and it is going over like free ice cream. Every Saturday from 8:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m., Eddie turns the rink over to the kids to play hockey in. He has three divisions from 10 to 16 years of age. "Sometimes I think there must be 500 teams in this hockey incubator Eddie has started," says Ducey. "Saturday morning around here is like a three-ringed circus."

Ducey adds that the brand of hockey played in the American League is the toughest he has ever seen. It is a place where a east iron-man can survive—but he is much safer if he is made of steel. There are a lot of cagey hockey brains piloting the various clubs and they are giving the fans hair-raising games.

U.S. Army Extends Precautions

Rose Bowl Goes To Durham; Golf May Also Be Banned

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 16.—(AP)—Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl football attraction found a safe haven at Durham, N.C., Monday while San Francisco's East-West encounter was due for a new home inland.

The wars effects cut deeper, meanwhile, into the far west's sports program. Gov. Culbert L. Olson ordered Santa Anita race track officials not to open the winter meeting scheduled for Dec. 31.

And the fate of other athletic events hung on the limb of uncertainty.

In one quick development, Rose Bowl authorities accepted an invitation to shift, in the interests of national defence, the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game between Oregon State College and Duke University to Durham, home of Duke's undefeated, untied grid forces.

Meanwhile, sponsors of the East-West game were reported considering several invitations to play the game. Chicago, Spokane, Wash., Atlanta, Ga., and the Universities of Kansas and Oklahoma were said to have extended bids.

MAY BAN ALL BIG MEETS

Army officials debated the possibility of banning all events, sports or otherwise, which would attract crowds of 10,000 or more.

This left uncertain the status of such outstanding attractions as:

The pro-bowl grid game in Los Angeles, between the national professional league champion and an all-star team from the loop, scheduled to be played in Memorial Coliseum Jan. 3.

The $10,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament, Jan. 9-12.

Santa Anita, its barns jammed with prized horseflesh and many horsemen already on the scene, was ready for its richest race program when Olson's notice was received.

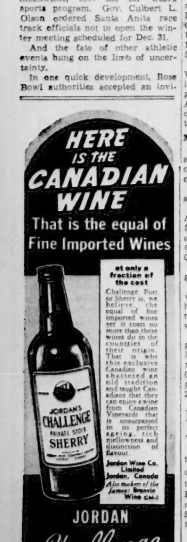

The $5,000 San Francisco open golf tournament for 1942, called off last week because of the war, was re-scheduled today by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and will be played on the original dates, Jan. 21-25.

Ken McAuley Stars As Saskatoon Wins

REGINA, Dec. 16—(CP)—A fortunate overtime goal from the stick of young Mike Shabega gave Saskatoon Quakers a 2-1 decision over Regina Rangers last night and increased Saskatoon's lead atop the Saskatchewan Senior hockey league table.

Bolked by an amazing display of goalkeeping by Ken McAuley, former Edmonton junior, the Quakers picked up the winner in the second minute of overtime as Shabega rushed alone, was ridden off the puck by the Regina defence, but circled after getting free and found the loose puck at his feet and banged it home. George Agar got the other Quaker goal. Ken Charlton of rugby fame got the lone Regina goal.

Every day 27,397 persons are accidentally injured in the U.S.

Santa Anita Up In Air

War Orders Ban Opening Of Californian Tracks

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Gov. Culbert L. Olson Monday told the Santa Anita track not to open its winter racing meeting Dec. 31, as scheduled. Jerry Giesler, chairman of the California Horse Racing Board, said he received a wire from the governor telling him of this decision. A similar notice was sent to the officials at Santa Anita.

The governor's ruling was based on a communication from Lt.-Gen. John L. Dewitt, commander of defence for the western states.

Spitfires Set Pace For Coast Hockey League

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16—(CP)—With the newly formed Pacific Coast Intermediate Amateur Hockey League already five weeks old, New Westminster Spitfires are proving to be the team to beat and at present hold a three point lead in league standings.

Spitfires started the season with a bang and ran up an unbeaten string of six games before tasting two successive defeats, one at the hands of the second-place Victoria Bapcos and the other by the third-place Nanaimo Clippers.

Only once has the right to Spitfires possession of the leading position been in the balance. Last Saturday, with but one point separating them, Victoria and New Westminster battled for the commanding spot but the latter emerged from the bruising affair with a readjusted grip on first place.

VICTORIA AWAKENS

Victoria, after shunning organized hockey for 12 years, came up this year with a team that is rapidly shaping up as a keen contender for the league title. Bapcos got off to a poor start and for a time resided in the cellar but fought back into second place with a five game win streak and lead Nanaimo—who last year swept through to the western Canada finals—by a single point. Norvans supplied the early pace with New Westminster but have dropped into a slump and Saturday night registered their seventh straight loss when Nanaimo downed them 2-1. They are currently sixth, tied on the cellar, five points behind the Clippers.

KOOTENAY JUNIORS

In the West Kootenays, Trail Intermediates hold a slim two-point lead in the new Inti-Jun League, which includes two junior teams and was formed in order to get the team in shape for provincial finals. The junior team from Trail is running second. Nelson's lone entry, Spitfires, have yet to register a win.

Thirteen teams have been chosen to represent "kid" hockey in the Kootenays this year but play does not start until after Christmas.

Three juvenile teams, six bantam and four midget clubs were selected and classified A, B, C, D, teams and many of today's stars obtained basic training in this league.

Stadium Flyers

Stadium Flyers will practice tonight from 6 to 7 o'clock at Stadium rink.

All candidates for a place on the team are asked to turn out.

Boy Meadows, which was to have featured the Santa Anita meeting, also was included in the governor's wire.

Stunned silence at Santa Anita greeted the news of Olson's order. The track only an hour earlier disclosed it was proceeding with plans for the opening of the 55-day winter meeting.

It was a hard blow for the hundreds of horsemen. Some 1,490 horses are on hand.

Weights were released Monday for the big race of the meeting—the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap set for March 7. Challedon and Mioland drew top weight of 130 pounds, with Farren Wright's Whirlaway, pointed for all-time high purse winnings, next with 129 pounds.

Nominations for the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby, scheduled for Feb. 25 were to be announced Friday. Mrs. A. Sabath's Alsab was figured the top contender for this event.

The Los Angeles Turf Club, operator of the track, had arranged the richest program of all time. More than $1,000,000 awaited horsemen in prize money.

Purpur Returns To Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Johnny Gottselig, manager of Kansas City Americans, said last night Fido Purpur, veteran rightwinger now with Chicago Blackhawks, would rejoin the Americans today.

No other players were involved in the deal with the parent club, Gottselig added. Purpur will be in the Kansas City lineup against Omaha tonight in an American Hockey Association game.

Mungo Refuses Join Minneapolis

PAGELAND, S.C., Dec. 16—(AP)—Van Lingle Mungo, long a Brooklyn Dodgers fireball pitcher, said last night he would not play with Minneapolis of the American Association because "it's too cold up there."

Mungo was sent last season to Montreal Royals then was traded at the recent Jacksonville, Fla., baseball meeting.

He said he would like to play for Atlanta of the Southern Association and suggested that "Minneapolis can make another deal and deal me south."

The 30-year-old speedball artist said he'd as soon go to the army as Minneapolis.

He is married and has two children.

Imlach Leads Quebec Senior

MONTREAL, Dec. 16 — (CP) — George Imlach of Cornwall Flyers continues to hold undisputed way atop the Quebec Senior Hockey League scorers, official figures showed Monday night.

Imlach, with 24 points on 10 goals and 14 assists, maintained a three-point margin on his teammate, Steve Ladoski who is followed by Ted Saunders, formerly of Cornwall and now with Ottawa Senators. Saunders has 19 points, two more than Jimmy Haggerty of Royals and Albert Lemay of Ottawa.

Hawks Trying To Save Rubber

CHICAGO, Dec. 16—(AP)—Chicago Black Hawks took notice of possible effects of the war with the following sign posted in the Chicago stadium at a national hockey league game:

"Notice: Because of the increasing scarcity of rubber we would greatly appreciate our patrons returning any pucks which might be shot into the audience, in order that we may be sure of enough to finish the season."

Only one puck sailed into the stands in Sunday night's game but the retriever kept the souvenir.

Patrick, Drillon In Tie for Lead National League

MONTREAL, Dec. 16—(CP)—Lynn Patrick of Rangers and Toronto's Gordie Drillon are current leaders of a tight National Hockey League scoring race, officials revealed today, with a host of her players pressing close on their heels.

Patrick picked up four points during the week and Drillon added three to his total, to give them each 17 points. Bryan Hextall of Rangers, and Bill Cowley of Boston, among the leaders last week, picked up two points each and slipped to a tie for third spot, a point behind Drillon and Patrick. Five players were tied with 15 points each.

Patrick's 11 goals gave him a clean-cut margin in the scoring department, while Cowley was tied with Tommy Anderson of Brooklyn for lead in assists with 12.

Burly Pat Egan of Brooklyn spent 10 minutes in the penalty box during the week to move into the league's "bad-man" spot with 35 minutes in majors and minors.

Chapman Victor Against Melino

By JACK KELLY
Edmonton Bulletin Sports Editor

ON top all the way, every inch an aggressive champion, Kenny Lindsay of Vancouver, Dominion bantamweight champ, won a unanimous decision here last night over Henry Espinosa, clever Los Angeles battler, in a 10-round battle that produced more machine-gun punching than any bout staged in these parts for a long time.

In the semi-final, Jimmy Chapman won by a wide margin over Bobby Melino, Los Angeles Mexican, in 10 fast rounds. Vic Pollock of Edmonton beat "Silent" Orr of Calgary on a technical kaye in their six-rounder; Don McDonald scored a second round technical knockout over Kid Cartier in one prelim and Sammy Kline of Calgary knocked out Chuck Dillon, also of Calgary, with the first punch he threw in the other prelim.

Despite the general excellence of the card, Promoter Sid Beech of Vancouver took a bad beating at the box office. When it is all squared up, the deficit may reach four figures—all of them on the left hand side of the decimal point.

BLISTERING BARRAGE

Lindsay loosed a blistering barrage of leather on Espinosa that forced the Los Angeles fighter back to the ropes and pinned him there repeatedly. Under such hurricane blasts there was only one thing Espinosa could do and stay perpendicular. He covered up—and he did it so effectively that Lindsay rarely got an opening for an effective punch.

Espinosa was as game as they come. The instant Lindsay's barrage let up, he would open an offensive of his own, attacks that were vicious and deadly enough to floor anyone but a top flight boxer.

Lindsay won because he retained the initiative, as the war correspondents say, and rarely gave Espinosa a chance to counter-attack.

ESPINOSA TAKES NINE

There was only one knockdown in the bout. Lindsay ripped inside Espinosa's defence with a crashing left and right to the head that put the Los Angeles boy down. He took the count of nine on one knee. This came in the cyclonic 10th round when the champion went all out for a kayoe.

All three judges scored the first two rounds even. One judge gave Espinosa the fourth and fifth rounds and Lindsay five rounds. Another gave Espinosa the fifth, Lindsay the fourth, seventh, ninth and tenth and called the others even. The third arbiter called the first, second and sixth even and gave Lindsay all the rest.

Bobby Melino made a sad mistake when he announced before the fight that he could take Jimmy Chapman in not more than five rounds. Chapman had a pronounced edge in reach and he made full use of it. With the exception of the fourth round, Melino failed to land with much authority on his lanky opponent.

Chapman was the aggressor most of the way and turned in one of the best fights he has staged here. Both boys mixed it freely from start to finish with rousing spells of toe-to-toe slugging.

American League Pitching Honors Awarded To Lee

CHICAGO, Dec. 16. — (AP) — A glance down the "games won" column of the American League's official 1941 pitching records, released today, shows Thornton Lee of Chicago White Sox and Bobby Feller of Cleveland Indians as the top men. Feller with 24, Thumper and Lee with 22. But the statistics reveal a dozen other heroes of the mound.

There was Vernon ("Lefty") Gomez of New York Yankees, winner of only three, of six games in 1940, who came back to take 15 and lost five last summer. And young Heber Newsome of Boston, who came within one triumph of reaching the 20-games-won circle.

Veteran Charley Ruffing of the Yankees again rated high in the percentages with 13 victories and six losses.

Topping all hurlers on a won-lost basis was Norman Branch of the Yanks, who earned five victories and had only one defeat. He worked in 27 games. Johnny Humphries of the White Sox led the list on an earned-runs basis, allowing only 1.85 scores per nine innings pitched, but he was in only 14 games.

Actually the leader in earned-runs was Lee in the White Sox lefty, who yielded 2.37 runs a full game and worked 35 contests or 300 innings. Lee and Feller both reached the 300-inning pitched level, the Indians' ace hurling 343 frames.

There was not a single no-hit no-run game, although there was one one-hitter.

Bill Cunningham's Column

SPORTS WRITERS SAW INGREDIENTS OF CONFLICT

BOSTON, Dec. 16—We sports writers, in Germany for the Olympics in 1936, were sending prophetic world history back from Berlin without realizing the direct long-range significance of the things we were seeing and hearing and tossing into our stories as local color. As things have worked out, it's now tragically obvious that if the governments of Europe had used those sports-written reports, instead of whatever it was they were using for information during that period, they'd have had a much clearer picture of the terrific impact even then building up against the hated Democracies.

But that isn't all.

At least one of those stories could have been perused with considerable interest by the Imperial Japanese Government. If the Japs really knew the contempt, the hatred and the ridicule with which the highest Nazi discussed them at that period, they probably would have hesitated to throw in their lot with the Germans. They're as certain to be double-crossed as the Russians were, and left to a miserable fate as soon as their nuisance value is ended.

The original plan of Nazi expansion started with the Yellow Races and it was the original hope of Hitler to unite the White world in a war on the Asiatics. This was his explained to me in great detail in a long, formal and serious interview with Ernst Hanfstaengl, then famous "Putzi" who rated at that time as Hitler's best friend and confidante.

I wasn't interested in it, paid no attention to it and kept trying to push it away to get at something else. But it all comes back clearly, almost every word that was spoken that sunny August morning in that big white Information Bureau office at the corner of the Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden. I was after the other story, the one that was shocking the world at the moment—the beating and brutalizing of Jews by the Hitler Brown Shirts.

The Boston bred and Harvard educated "Putzi" was the natural contact. Officially, he was the Nazi liasion agent with the "Foreign Press." Because he had saved Hitler when the Munich beer hall putsch failed—Putzi hid the ex-corporal in his home while the police searched high and low—he was more than a disciple. He was a saviour. Because he could play the piano and generally set the clown in a big, horsey way, he was the intimate, the confidante, the pressure-easer to his scrubby-looking little leader.

TERRIFIC SMASHER OF PIANOS WAS "PUTZI"

I wasn't wholly just a strange reporter walking in on him. He'd been back to Harvard within the year for his 25th reunion, was he amazed and amused his middle-aged classmates by apparently never sleeping by drinking immense quantities of straight gin and by giving acrobatic renditions of Beethoven and Wagner that left every piano he assailed punch drunk and exhausted. During this period, I had met him and had even performed with him at a couple of reception parties where they had two pianos. I thought I could slug the horse teeth, but this giant pounded them.

But I kept asking him there in Berlin why the Nazi had gone in for racial persecution. I told him millions in the United States were shocked by it, could never condone it. But first of all they couldn't understand it.

His reply was to assail the Japanese. His talk amounted almost to a public address. He got into it by saying that the Jewish troubles in Germany were only an insignificant local situation, really commercial, not racial, nor religious in character, but that there was a great racial question imperilling the safety of the entire white world.

He spoke of the impudent international ambitions of the semi-civilized Japanese and said that instead of trying to make an international incident of a few Jewish shop windows smashed in Berlin's West End, all the white nations of the earth should be combining with all strength against the Yellow—especially against the Japanese—until they were reduced to absolute impotence.

The perspiration began to break out on his great concave face, and I remember how he fished a handkerchief out of his breast pocket and kept dabbing at it, forehead, at the same time shaking back the black mane of limp and greasy-looking hair that kept falling down over his eyes. He waved his long arms. His voice rumbled and roared. He jerked himself out of the chair and strode up and down the big office, like a tall, wide-eyed and gesticulating scarecrow.

JAP PLAN OF ATTACK KNOWN TO NAZI GANG

HE even got a map and showed me how the Japs would start their conquest. They'd move South, he said, through Malaya, the Dutch East Indies, Java and the rest to seize Australia and New Zealand. They'd blast the Philippines, seize Honolulu, and then move on the western United States, possibly by first assaulting Chile or Mexico.

"Yes," I said, not interested in any of that, "but why are the Jews being placed in concentration camps? What do you plan to do with them? Where does this stop?"

He'd brush the questions off and go back to what he called "this grave world peril."

Of course, this great hulking clown finally fled for his life and when last heard of was interned in a British concentration camp and I thought no more of his tirade against the heathen. I figured it for what it probably was, a capitulation to avoid answering some direct and embarrassing questions. But it was a reasoned interpolation and he spoke at one of the Nazi sanctum. He said, in so many words that he was expounding official Nazi doctrine, official government policy. He urged me to write that, with all the power I could bring to bear, instead of anything about the little local disturbances in-solving a few Jewish shopkeepers."

Maybe the Japs could have read a little Berlin sports, too, to advantage. Their alliance with the Germans wasn't even hari-kari, it was just taking the poison straight.

Famous Race Driver Dies

GOSHEN, N.Y., Dec. 16—(AP)—Walter Cox, 72, who won his first race down the main street of Manchester, N.H., to settle an argument with a rival butcher boy, died Monday after building up a wide reputation as a driver and trainer of trotters and pacers.

Cox's greatest triumph came in the 1909 Hambletonian when the first four horses to cross the finish line all were trained by him. He was up behind the winner, Walter Dear.

He gave up driving several years ago. Although he won most of the sport's big stakes, he never mastered a horse faster than two minutes.

He was born at Epsom, N.H.

SOLOMON'S CANDLESTICK: The holiest thing in the religion of the Izedi or Satan worshippers, a sect in Iraq, is this candlestick, known as "Sandjak," which they believe was made by God, and was once King Solomon's property. The slightest damage to the "Sandjak" is considered blasphemy, to be followed by the death of the responsible guard. A light is kept burning in the room constantly to prevent theft.

American Hockey League Benefit To Aid Canada

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(AP)—Maurice Podoloff, president of the American Hockey League, announced Monday night that the circuit's first all-star game, originally intended as a benefit for its indigent and injured players, will be played instead as a benefit for the American and Canadian chapters of the Red Cross, both to share equally in the proceeds.

"In the 18 years of our existence, we've managed to get along without a fund for our needy players, and we'll just have to do the same for a while longer," Podoloff said. "I think the players will agree that in the present emergency, the Red Cross certainly deserves all the help we can give it."

Although there is not a Canadian team among the nine in the league, it was decided that Canada merited a share of the funds since more than 75 per cent of the players were natives of the Dominion.

The game, pitting an eastern all-star squad against a western aggregation, will be played in Cleveland Feb. 3. Each group will consist of 15 players, to be chosen by the fans, hockey writers and broadcasters, and the coaches. Details of the balloting and the managers of each all-star team will be announced later this week, Podoloff said.

Hockey writers and commentators, meeting in conjunction with league officials, formed the American Hockey League Writers Association and elected Vic Wall, of the Springfield (Mass). union, president. John Dietrich, of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was named vice-president, and Mike Thomas, of the Providence (R.I.) Journal, secretary-treasurer.

Jap War Leaves Sport Windows Black At Coast

VANCOUVER, Dec. 16—(CP)—British Columbia's sport world was back to normal today, but the war in the Pacific and the three-day blackout of the coastline have left their mark in a trail of blackened windows in hockey arenas and basketball courts.

Hockey was the only game interfered with when the blackout was called suddenly a week ago today, but officials of other sports took steps to carry on should the blackout have continued.

TWO GAMES MISSED

Two scheduled games of the newly-formed Pacific Coast Intermediate Hockey league were postponed because of the blackout—Victor A. Bapcos vs. Vancouver Navians here last Monday, and Bapcos vs. Spitfires at New Westminster Tuesday.

Nanaimo Clippers' home arena was blacked out and soldier hockey was continued there, but no definite decision had been made to continue Pacific Coast league play when the blackout was suddenly lifted Thursday.

RUGGER CANCELLED

Daytime matches of the Pacific Coast Soccer league were not interfered with but a scheduled English rugby match between a Vancouver all-star team and a fifteen from the British battleship Warspite was cancelled when the sailors were called back to their ship at Bremerton, Wash. No inter-city basketball games were scheduled during the blackout period.

One of Vancouver's outstanding annual events—the Rotary ice carnival—opened during the blackout and was held behind the darkened windows of the Vancouver Forum, drawing a good attendance despite the difficulties of transportation.

Dynamiters Play Red Deer Tonight

CALGARY, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Calgary Stampeders, holding the upper hand all the way in a smartly played game that produced many flashes of fine hockey, climbed to within one point of the pace-setting Lethbridge Maple Leafs by defeating Kimberley Dynamiters 5-0 here Monday night as the B.C. sextet continued its first swing around the eastern end of the A.B.C. Senior Amateur Hockey League.

Dynamiters, beaten 6-1 in Lethbridge Saturday, move on to Red Deer for Tuesday night in the course of a gruelling road trip that demands that they play six games in eight consecutive days.

Calgary took a 1-0 lead in the opening period, rapped in three quick goals to make it 4-0 in the second, and finished off with another tally during the last minute of third-period play.

French, with two tallies, paced the Stampeder forwards with Atkinson, Dewar and Grant snaring the other goals.

GAME OPENS FAST

The teams opened the first period with some fast hockey with the forwards back-checking in brilliant fashion to keep the defence lines packed for most of the 20-minute session.

Seven minutes went by before the red light flashed on and then it was Calgary which netted the goal—the only one of the period—on a smart passing play by Desmarais, Dewar and French. The two first named players worked the rubber through the Kimberley defence and when the puck was laid neatly across the goal mouth French skated up fast to smash it past Nash.

Wilson had the best chance of the period for Kimberley but his shot was turned aside by Rice-Jones and Nash was equally brilliant late in the session when he stopped a scoring thrust by Cairns. There were no penalties as the teams played high-speed, clean hockey.

THREE QUICKIES

Dynamiters held their own for the greater part of the second period but three goals within five minutes of play put them far in arrears. Atkinson who had just returned to the ice after being injured in a crash into the end boards started the brief scoring spree when he let go a 20-foot shot after a neat passing play with French and Desmarais. The puck went into the lower left corner of the net and Nash had little chance to get his stick or skate to it.

Dewar made it 3-0 with one of the finest solo attacks ever seen in Calgary. Taking the puck from his own blue line, the crafty defenceman zig-zagged all over the ice, eluding the entire Kimberley team, and finally whipped in a shot after faking Nash out of position. French finished off the scoring a minute later on a clean breakaway with Atkinson who laid over a long pass to set up the score.

PLAY GETS ROUGH

Play roughened somewhat during the period with Desmarais and Zobovesky drawing simultaneous penalties for high-sticking early in the frame, Sprout being penalized for boarding Hunt and Gardner drawing banishment for high-sticking just before the whistle.

Kimberley was given a great opportunity early in the third frame when Sprout was penalized for holding and Gardner followed him to the bench with an elbowing penalty, but Dynamiters failed to set a power play organized and the Cowboys came through with their shutout still intact. When Rediasy was penalized for slashing and holding, Stampeders gave Nash a busy time but he kicked out everything that came his way.

Atkinson came close late in the period but Nash blocked the shot and then Rice-Jones was forced to make two smart saves as Barker and Sullivan rushed in on him. In the last minute of play Calgary wound up the game's scoring as Cairns slipped the puck ahead through the Kimberley defence and Grant picked it up for an easy shot into the net.

WEEKLY LIVESTOCK REPORT

By the Supervising Grader, L.S.P.

Report from the Edmonton stockyards for the week ending December 13th.

Receipts:	Cattle	Calves	Hogs	Sheep
Today (13th)	180	25	341	31
Week	2,100	239	2969	438

Trading was more active on the cattle market for week ending 13th Dec. Cattle, with good fleshing, were in demand, and prices gained strength. Plain and common kinds, however, were no better than steady. One lot of good fed steers sold at $9, and some good heavies $9½. A few choice heifers topped at $8¼; good light cows from $5¾ to $6¼, heavy $5¼ to $5¾; bulls were firm, with the bulk of the good weighty bulls selling from $5¼ to $6¼, with few tops $6½. The following are the quotations:

Good to chice fed calves $8½ to $9½; good to choice light steers $8½ t $9, good to choice heavy steers $8 to $8½, fair to medium $6¾ to $7½, common to fair $4 to $6½; good to choice heifers $7½ t $8¼, fair to medium $6¼ to $7¼, common to fair $4 to $6¼; good to choice light cows $5¾ to $6¼, good to choice heavy cows $5¼ to $5¾, fair to medium $4 to $5; canners and cutters $2½ to $3¾; good bulls, $6 to $6½, common $4½ to $5¾.

Stockers and feeders weighing above 800 lbs. of good quality were in fair demand, while other classes were decidedly slow, and hard to move. Good steers sold from $6 to $6½, with short keeps up to $7; common to fair light stockers, at times, were practically unsaleable, and were quoted as low as $4 per cwt.

Veal calves were active and firm, with good to choice handy weights selling from $9 to $10, heavy and common kinds $8 down.

Hogs, basic, unchanged at $13.80 for Coast shipment, and $13¼ for local deliveries. Sows advanced, with live weight quoted at $7 to $8, dressed $8¼ to $9¼. Owing to recent announcement of the Bacon Board, farmers and shippers warned not to ship for slaughter hogs weighing less than 180 lbs. home weight. If necessary to ship feeders, do not tattoo, but use clip marks for identification, and these pigs will be separated from slaughter hogs.

Lambs were stronger this week. Good to choice handy weights sold from $8¾ to $9¼, with choice ff-cars $9½. Yearlings $6½ down; and good light ewes quoted $4½ down.

LOCAL GROUPS TO DISCUSS PLANS

Citizens Are Urged To Supply Salvage For War Effort

Edmonton Sailor Swims 2 Hours As Corvette Windflower Sunk

Just last Wednesday Stoker "Al" Brohman, 19, spent two hours floating in the bitter, fog-shrouded, oil-smeared brine of the North Atlantic after his corvette, H. M. C. S. Windflower, was sunk in collision with a freighter. On Tuesday he lounged in his home on 117 street, chatting with his mother, as if it had been nothing.

Given 30 days' leave after his boat went to the bottom Stoker Brohman will spend Christmas and New Year's with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin A. Brohman, 10047 117 street.

The collision occurred about 10 a.m., when the fog was so thick it was impossible to see more than 15 feet, he related. He was asleep in his bunk below at the time. The jar threw him out of his bunk and he rushed up to the "for'ale" and dived over the side.

"My bunk was pretty well for'ard," he said, "and the freighter struck us back aft. It was a 9,500-ton freighter with a 10,000-ton cargo and it cut our stern away."

DONS LIFEBELT

"I just had on a pair of pants and a shirt and rubber boots. I put on my lifebelt because I always used it as a pillow when I slept. When I got in the water I got one of my boots off, but the other was stuck. It was full of oil and my hands were too cold."

After two hours, he said, he was picked up by a Dutch freighter in the convoy.

"I had quite a fortune on me, too," he said, "five Newfoundland pennies and one Newfoundland nickel."

He had his lifebelt at home with him, still smelling strongly of petroleum.

Speaking of after-effects, he said, "I caught a bit of a cold, a sore throat."

Standing over six feet tall, Stoker Brohman is already thickening into a large, powerful man. He loves the navy but added a special word for the merchant marine. "They are the boys that deserve the credit," he said.

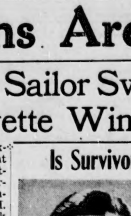

Ashore in barracks, he said, navy food is wonderful. "On the corvettes, though," he said, "the boats pitch so much that about the only kind of food you can eat is hard-boiled eggs and macaroni."

"TALK FUNNY"

He likes Newfoundland. "People there certainly are good to us," he said, "but they talk funny. A girl will say, for instance, 'Tell me where you're to and I'll come where you're at.'"

"I meet a lot of Edmonton fellows down there. There is Bob Stewart, who lives in this neighborhood. He is growing himself a beard. A bunch of the fellows are growing beards."

Scrap Material Need Now Emphasized Here By Western Organizer

Paper, metal, bones and rags are war weapons which the householders in every city, town and hamlet in Alberta can save and give to Canada's war effort, stated Andrew Sheline, organizer for Alberta and British Columbia, National Salvage Campaign, who conferred here Monday with Mayor John W. Fry and the city commissioners and later with the Edmonton Salvage Committee on salvage work to be undertaken in Edmonton and district.

The present salvage campaign, stated Mr. Sheline, has four objectives. To rescue from dump heaps, back sheds, attics, dust bins and basements certain kinds of materials that are required in war industries; to give every Canadian on the home front a chance to fight Hitler and his allies by helping to collect salvage and prevent waste; to develop a spirit of national thrift and to raise monies for war-purposes by the sale of these materials to the salvage trade.

He stressed the necessity for the formation of salvage committees in every centre throughout the province. Waste materials are vital to the war effort. To get these waste materials working against the enemy there must be effort by every man, woman and child in Alberta to see that every scrap of available salvage is shipped to Canadian war industries.

The most urgently needed materials were steel and iron, he said, but household bones, old clothing, rags, paper and cardboard, household fats and green and amber glass

City Dancers To Aid Concert Group Tuesday

Highland dancers who participated in the concert which featured Gracie Fields, in the Empire Theatre Friday and Saturday nights of last week, will take part in a concert being held by the McCauley Concert Group in the East Edmonton hall Tuesday night. The dancers are Minnie and Lilly Foster and Margaret Macdonald. W. Lockie will be the piper. In addition other members of the concert group will take part in the program which will be the last before the New Year. Luncheon will be served by the ladies of the district.

On January 9, a concert will be given by the group in the local hall at Ministic.

Chest Endorses Annual Appeal Of "Army" Fund

Explanation of the appeal now being made by the Salvation Army for its annual Christmas Kettle fund was issued Tuesday by H. R. Milner, K.C. president of the Edmonton Community Chest.

Mr. Milner's statement follows:

"There have been some enquiries not of a critical nature, as to whether the Salvation Army Christmas Kettle, which is now appearing on the streets, is authorized by the Edmonton Community Chest.

"In the first place it must be remembered that the Community Chest becomes operative only on the 1st of January and that the funds collected were for the 1942 work and not for the work of the present year. Aside altogether from that, however, the budget committee of the Community Chest came to the conclusion, after very careful consideration, that the Christmas Kettle, like the sale of poppies on Remembrance Day, should be continued—both are institutions.

WORK FOR NEEDY

"The Salvation Army Kettle is associated with the Christmas season. The amount collected is small but enables the Salvation Army to do a great deal of Christmas work amongst the really needy. It can therefore be taken that the Community Chest, acting on the recommendation of the budget committee, endorses wholeheartedly the appeal made by the Kettle and hopes it will be as generously supported by the people of Edmonton this Christmas as in the past."

Lower School Age Not Planned Here

Question of considering lowering school age of Alberta students has not been considered here, according to provincial education department officials.

Their statement was made following a report from Ontario that the government there was considering reducing compulsory school age to 15 in order to release more young people for the army, the farms and industries.

It was pointed out that the compulsory school age is 16 years and to Grade 9 in Alberta at the present time.

20 Wood Buffalo Frozen To Death

Exceptionally heavy snows have fallen in the country north of Fort Chipewyan this winter, it was stated here Tuesday by Pilot North Sawle, United Air Services.

This snow, he said, bears down on the river ice and the water floods over the ice. Recently 20 wood buffalo were caught in the deep slush on the Slave river, between the bay camp and Chipewyan, and froze to death.

Fort Smith, Pilot Sawle said, is preparing for its annual Christmas entertainment and dance to be held in the Mackenzie hotel. This year, for the first time, a skating rink has been built in the hotel enclosure. Twenty carloads of water were hauled from the river for the rink.

Order for 31,500 city telephone directories has been placed with an Edmonton printing firm, it was announced Tuesday by Robert Christie, city telephone department superintendent. This is the largest order for the directories ever placed by the department, being 500 in excess of last year's peak order. It is expected the new directories will be ready for distribution about January 10.

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

IN the select circles where I congregate my colleagues Jack Kelly, the sports editor, Harold Dean of the sports department, and those thousands upon thousands of Edmontonians who are interested in athletics, there is frequent conversation about a ducky gent, with a powerful punch, colloquially described as the Brown Bomber. Messrs. Kelly, Dean and Co. can rattle off statistics about his rights, his lefts, his jabs, his rabbit punches and other blows beloved by devotees of the ring.

The Brown Bomber, obviously is a marvelous fighting machine. The records tell that story in convincing fashion. The impact of his blows, to use the language of the classics, "definitely" is "terrific." He wastes no time in wading in for a knockout. He battles without emotion and wages his fights to win. But it is universal testimony that Joe Louis is as clean a fighter as he is a formidable opponent.

Ask a group of fight fans to imagine the Big Brown Bomber using his right to shake hands with the challenger and driving his left for a K.O. to the jaw. Can you imagine it? . . . And then again there are little brown bombers who sneak up and bomb you from behind while they go through the motions of shaking hands with Cordell Hull at Washington while the "left" was bombing Hawaii, Guam, Wake and the Philippine Islands.

That, of course, is another old cherry blossom custom used way back in the Russian-Japanese war. On Feb. 8, 1904, after long negotiations regarding the "independence and territorial integrity of Korea" had fallen through, the Japanese main fleet steamed into the harbor of Port Arthur, where the main Russian far eastern fleet was stationed, opened fire without warning and so badly damaged the Russian fleet that it never recovered. The next day Japan declared war on Russia. No doubt this is one old custom that will be hammered out of the Japs before this embroglio is over.

Watching a group of smart young lads heading for the naval training barracks, this observer turned his thoughts to the gallant lads in navy blue and some information recently released by the British admiralty came to mind. Submarine officers—and maybe some of those stalwart chaps I saw, will be in charge of subs some day—often have ridges across their finger nails, each ridge caused by a separate period of mental strain.

White hair and baldness are also found among captains of submarines. Baldness cannot be caused by nervousness, but while hair can. It is not unusual for a submarine commander's hair to go from jet black to gray in 12 months. Evidently life on a submersible is not without great worry. But the gallant British and Allied undersea crews, as those of the surface navies and merchant marine, continue their valiant work undaunted and undaunted.

Last Respects Paid Here To Rev. G. Reynolds

Heaped high with flowers, the altar at Holy Trinity church was a silent tribute to a clergyman's work as funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Rev. Canon Graham G. Reynolds, rector of the church, who died Friday.

The service was conducted by Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Anglican bishop of the Edmonton diocese, assisted by Rev. N. J. Godkin, and was preceded by a short Canadian Legion service conducted by W. "Paddy" Griffin. Canon Reynolds was padre to the Legion branch in Edmonton.

During the service, the congregation sang the hymn "Let Saints honor in concert with those whose work is done," and the 23rd Psalm Nune Dimittis was sung at the close of the service.

HEARTFELT TRIBUTE

In a brief address, Bishop Barfoot told the filled church that "a great concourse is gathered here to pay heartfelt tribute of admiration and respect to a man of God."

"Gathered here," he said, "are representatives of every occupation of our common life in which Canon Reynolds lived to the very end. Gathered here are the people of his

U.F.A. Will Hold Annual Meeting Here Jan. 20-23

Annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta will be held in the Macdonald hotel from January 20 to 23, it was announced Tuesday.

Speakers at the convention will include Dr. E. A. Corbett, Toronto, president of the Canadian Association for Adult Education; J. S. Brownlee, K.C., solicitor for the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and former U.F.A. premier of Alberta; Dr. Robert Newton, acting president of the University of Alberta; and possibly Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce and M.P. for Edmonton West.

TO ASK RESIGNATION

A resolution from the Mill Creek local that will be submitted to the convention is asking for the resignation of Hon. James G. Gardiner because of his "failure to adopt systematically any policy recommended by organized agriculture." Other resolutions to be presented deal with closing of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange; pegging of a "just and equitable" price on all coarse grains; removal of the federal three cent per gallon tax on gasoline; reduction of the present age limit of 70 for old age pensions; and opposition to the proposed amalgamation of the U.F.A. and the U.F.C.

Robert Gardiner is president of the U.F.A. and Norman F. Priestley is vice-president. More than 300 delegates are expected to attend.

More Women Are Needed For Duty In Air Auxiliary

More enlistments in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force are required, Flt.-Lt. J. E. Pugh, acting officer commanding at No. 3 R.C.A.F. recruiting centre, announced Tuesday. The women should be between the ages of 21 and 40, and should have Grade 8 or 9 educations. They are required for general duties, messengers, runners, etc., and for work in mess halls, such as waitress and other positions. Applicants should apply to the recruiting centre in the Provincial building.

Temperature Goes Up In Edmonton: Snow Is Expected

A sudden change in the weather at midnight Monday sent the mercury up in leaps and bounds to reach 30 above at 9 a.m., Tuesday. Monday night it dropped rapidly to reach a low of seven above at 11.30. It then started its three-degree-per-hour rise.

Reason for the sudden spurt upward was probably due to an overcast sky and decreasing barometer, both of which indicated to the forecaster that Edmontonians can probably expect snow.

Far north readings have receded slightly with the low being 12 below at Fort Norman. Dawson reported one above.

City Air Cadets, Now Smartly Uniformed, Lead Alberta Units

Another 100 members of Edmonton Squadron No. 12 were outfitted with the blue uniform of the Air Cadets of Canada at a parade Monday night. The complete flight has now been uniformed as well as all the non-commissioned officers.

J. H. Wildman, chairman of the Cadet committee for the city, stated on his return from a provincial meeting in Calgary recently that Edmonton's Cadet progress is the most advanced of any in the province. He attended the meeting with Cadet Sqdn Ldr. Colin D. MacKenzie, officer commanding No. 12 squadron. Other points represented were Calgary, Camrose, Coleman, Hanna, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin, Lethbridge, McLeod, Myrnam, Medicine Hat, Penhold and Ponoka.

REPORTS GIVEN

Various progress reports were made for each squadron represented, and ideas for further advancement were exchanged.

Mr. Wildman stated that one of the most progressive units is that at Penhold. "Some of the members travel as far as 60 miles, there and back, to attend the parades." Mr. Wildman said. "All the units reported similar enthusiasm."

All parades for the Edmonton squadron have been cancelled between Christmas and New Year's. The first parade in 1942 will be held January 5.

Jasper Avenue Signal Lights Are Requested

Edmonton's Trades and Labor Council, at a meeting Monday at the Labor Hall, decided to ask city commissioners to give consideration to the installation of traffic control lights from 100 to 104 streets on Jasper avenue, and from Jasper avenue to 104 avenue on 101 street.

The trade body asked also that a traffic light be installed at the intersection of Jasper avenue and 82 street. Other traffic suggestions designed for greater safety will be suggested to the city commissioners dealing with parking at intersections.

Delegates to the meeting stressed the danger of the Jasper and 82 street corner, and urged that immediate steps be taken to place traffic control lights at this point.

TRAFFIC CONGESTION

They considered also that a system of control lights on Jasper avenue and 101 street were necessary to eliminate the traffic congestion which was created by the single control light at this intersection and also the 102 avenue and 101 street intersection.

Secretary Alfred Farmilo was instructed to interview the provincial government seeking the appointment of a labor representative on the price fixing and wage ceiling board about to be appointed in Alberta.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the Dominion government's curtailment of sales of new tires?

THE ANSWERS

BUD POTTER, plot: The move apparently was to prevent people stocking up, and no doubt some would be foolish enough to do that. After available supplies are ascertained, I think an equitable plan of distribution will be worked out.

TED BISHOP, lawyer: I would commend the Dominion government for its alacrity in passing this order. Quick action is needed at these times.

DICK BECKETT, office boy: If the rubber is needed for war materials, and if the supply is likely to be short, civilians can well afford to do without it. I think the main effect will be on pleasure driving.

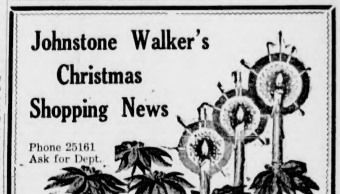

City Troops To Serve On Coast

Detachment of 20 men will leave the Edmonton garrison in the next few days for service on the Pacific Coast, it was announced Tuesday by Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant. The Edmonton group will be joined by 15 from Calgary.

Regular monthly meeting of the Edmonton Hospital Board will be held at the Royal Alexandra hospital at 6 p.m. Friday, W. W. Ross, Board secretary, announced Tuesday. Dinner will be served prior to the general business meeting.

Festive Ham Is Smeared With Jam

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Baked ham, specially glazed, is a traditional Canadian meat. It carves easily, is moderate in cost and takes a gorgeous glaze. Here's a brand-new receipe for a "holly" glaze.

GLAZED HOLLY HAM

After removing skin from cooked ham, score fat with knife. Spread entire surface of ham generously with orange marmalade. To make holly leaf design, cut leaves from angelica. Arrange leaves in decorative fashion over top surface of ham. At the base of each leaf, arrange three uncooked cranberries to resemble holly berries. Bake in uncovered roasting pan in a hot oven (425d F.) about 30 minutes, or until surface is nicely glazed.

CARVING CHRISTMAS HAM

Before placing the ham on the table cut a slice from the lean side of the ham parallel to the bone. Place ham on the servnig platter upon the flat surface formed by the removal of this first slice. To carve, first remove a wedge as close to the protruding leg bone as possible. Then slice the fleshy part of the ham in vertical cuts straight down to the bone. After as many vertical cuts have been made as are necessary for the first serving, turn the knife to a horizontal position, and, starting at the opening fartened by the wedge, cut along the bone until the last vertical slice is separated. In this manner perfect slices fall out. For more servings, turn the ham completely over and slice at right angles to the bone.

For the Christmas night family supper, try this beautiful combination, using some of the left-over ham.

FESTIVE HAM CASSEROLE

(Makes 6 Servings)

Six oranges peeled and sliced, 2½ cups diced leftover ham, 1 cup chopped nut meats, 4 medium cooked sweet potatoes, ½ cup top milk or thin cream, 3 tablespoons butter, ¼ cup brown sugar,

Santa carves the Christmas ham.

Butter well a large baking dish or casserole. Line the bottom of casserole with a layer of orange slices. Combine diced ham and chopped nut meats. Cover orange slices with a layer of ham; continue with orange slices and ham until all are used. Mash sweet potatoes; add top milk or cream, butter and brown sugar and beat until thoroughly blended. Cover orange slices and ham with sweet potatoes, piling lightly. Bake in moderately hot oven (375d F.) for 30 minutes. Serve hot.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST — Orange juice, scrambled eggs, whole-wheat toast, jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON — Potato soup, toasted muffins, stewed dried fruit, gingerbread, tea, milk.

SPECIAL CHRISTMAS DINNER —Grapefruit and tangerine cup, glazed holly ham, sweet potato soufflé, green beans, molded cranberry salad, eggnog pie, nuts, raisins, coffee, milk.

Your Figure Madame!

Did you happen to see that cartoon of the lady who could barely wait until her nine-day diet was over? She was standing t the already open ice box and pointing to the chicken as she admonished to the baffled husband that she had only three more minutes to go.

Quite a few of you who make such a fuss about going on a diet seem to share her enthusiasm for going off it. But, by the law of averages, a diet that is restricted to a certain number of days is almost too temporary in its results to count. As soon as you stop reducing, you start gaining.

Since day-to-day food habits decide your weight, it is only common sense to keep on eating the protective foods which make up the balanced menus until you eat them from habit if not choice. After indulging in fattening foods for a long time, you can't expect to change your preferences or even establish new habits in nine days.

But the longer you eat the protective foods, the less you will crave those that are fattening and the more certain you can be of staying slim. And there you have the one and only trick to weight control.

Some of you, however, keep looking for loopholes. One reducer wrote to ask if there were not a few easy tricks, say like tossing bread to dry out the calories. Well, toasting the bread doesn't make any difference. The number of calories it contains depends on how thin you slice it—and how thick you spread the butter.

It is true that the calorie count of the same vegetables may differ. Young vegetables have fewer calories and more vitamins than the older ones. The older a vegetable is, the more starch it contains. Another way to cut calories is to cook the vegetables properly—for a very short time and in a small amount of water—so that the natural flavor is retained and butter and sauces are not missed. For an appetizing low calorie soup, always save the vegetable water, flavor it with a beef bouillon cube and have this first course with celery instead of crackers.

Don't skip meals to reduce—you just overeat at the next one. Instead of letting yourself get ravenously hungry between meals, you may find it a good plan to trick your appetite into contentment with hot tea, or hot cocoa made with skim milk and flavored with vanilla, or with a cup of bouillon made with vegetable water. Any of these will take the gnawing edge off your appetite and the few calories they contain can be discounted.

If you will trim off all the fat, you can have all the meat you want even on the diet. Of course, you have to cut down somewhere in order to keep the calories within your reducing limits. So if you take a second helping of the roast, leave off the dessert.

While you are changing your habits of eating, get over the bad habit of stuffing. Next time you eat until your waistband feels snug you have eaten too much. What you must learn to do is to stop before you reach that point. Gradually you will be satisfied with less.

Points For Parents

Mother: "It's Mary's turn now, Sue. I'll tell Auntie you each had a turn in stirring her Christmas candy."

Mother: "If you'll just get out of the kitchen and let me make this candy alone, I'll give you some when it's finished."

All-Year-Round Shirtwaister

Here's a thrifty frock that you can wear from one season into another and always be fashionably dressed! Pattern 4729 is a hardy-perennial shirtwaister designed to make you slim. The bias panels in both the front and back of the skirt have the eye-deceiving value of minimizing a large hipline. The pockets are bias too, and come in two different shapes, both trimmed with buttons. You'll like the way the darts at the shoulders and waist let out just enough fullness over the bust. Hasn't the collar an unusual shape—accent it if you like by using contrast fabric. You can also choose between a short tucked sleeve and a long full shirtmaker sleeve . . . a Sewing Instructor is included.

Pattern 4729 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4¾ yards 35 inch fabric.

Novel Terrarium You Easily Make

Gay Blooms in a Glass Teapot

A new and delightful kind of terrarium! In a glass teapot, you can grow with almost no effort a lovely African violet, a bit of fern—or whatever plant you like.

To make this or almost any other terrarium — the fishbowl type, for instance—you just put in the bottom some cinders or pebbles for drainage, and add soil. Keep the soil moist for an African violet, but don't let water get on the leaves.

A fine companion for your gaily blooming terrarium is a dish garden. Grow a dwarf pine from seed, pinching and pruning to get the effect of a grown tree in miniature. Or in your woodland rambles you may find a tiny pine, dwarfed by some accident. Dwarfed trees do better with poor soil, little warmth.

You can make a fascinating dish garden, too, with an assortment of quaint cacti. Plant in sand mixed with a little garden loam, and water only occasionally.

Our 32-page booklet gives detailed instructions for all kinds of lovely dish gardens and terrariums. Tells how to raise exotic orchids and gardenias under glass; grow a practical and pretty kitchen herb garden in a window box.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Glass Gardens And Novelty Indoor Gardens" to the Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front St. W., Toronto, Ontario. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—My wife and I are. I believe, as nice a couple as America can produce; sober, ambitious, loyal and law-abiding. We have been married more than 25 years and love each other dearly but lately our tempers and moods seem to have got beyond control. We work together in the same store and we have to take plenty in order to earn our living, not so much from the boss as from the public, and it is ruthless. We have to deal with all kinds of people in every walk of life and they do not spare our feelings

Dorothy Dix

So when night comes our nerves are all shattered and the awful thing is that when my wife says the least harsh thing to me I fly into a tantrum and create a scene.

I bed her to restrain her words and be very careful of what she says, and to allow our nerves to settle before we discuss any problem, but she forgets and makes some criticism and I forget myself and wallow in a terrible temper. No one who has not worked in a store can realize the horrors the average public puts upon the sales people. But what can we do about it, for we must work to live?

APPRECIATIVE.

Answer—Nothing. I am afraid, unless you can acquire a more philosophic outlook upon your temperaments and realize that they are not stebbing at you with a deliberate desire to hurt you personally, but just blindly lashing out at every one because their own nerves are as frayed and raw as yours are.

It would do you no good to change your job because it would be just jumping out of the frying pan into the fire and you would be thrown in contact with other people just as thoughtless and rude and inconsiderate as the ones you meet daily now. As Kipling says: "We are all tied on the same heel rope."

Of course, what you and your wife both need is to be parted for a little while and have a good rest curs away from each other. It is pitiful to think how many husbands and wives quarrel and fight and say bitter and cruel things to each other just because they are overworked and overstrained, and they take out on each other the irritation that they dared not show their employers or their customers.

Many a man comes home at night and kicks the cat and spanks the baby and tells his wife she is a fool because he has been losing all day to kick his boss, or tell some stunid old woman what he thought about her.

But surely your letter has in it a message for the general public. It should teach those of us who stand before the counter to be kinder, more patient, less difficult to please by the men and women who stand behind the counter. Let us not make them the scapegoats for our own tempers and irritations and our own soreness at a world that we think has treated us unfairly.

DOROTHY DIX

Minute Make-Ups

Here are some quick make-up tricks to make your neck more lovely—but quick! If your neck is short and too thick for beauty use a darker foundation cream or lotion on your neck—about two shades darker than the foundation used on the face.

If your neck is long and too slender, use a lighter shade of foundation on the neck than that used for the face. This will have the effect of making the neck seem less long and slender. Also wind several strands of pearls around that too-slender neck.

What To Do

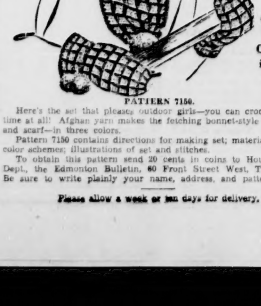

A smart hostess is she who remains unflustered and is able to bathe and dress leisurely before guests arrive.

The only way to attain this leisure is to constantly keep your house and your company china washed, your silver polished, your linens unwrinkled. All this comes under the heading of "preparation." If you will plan your time to include polishing silver and washing unused china and glassware, you will never be caught by unexpected guests in the embarrassing position of having to give a last-minute shine to the silver bread tray—or of having to wipe dust off the crystal goblets before they may be used.

If you will budget your time every day to include these things, you will be the envied hostess who has plenty of time to dress and rest instead of having a million "little" tasks to perform.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Any mother knows the advantages of finishing what she sets out to do. She cannot begin to dust the living room and then run into the kitchen to bake a cake, then start to write a letter, without finding her mind in a clutter. She should do one thing at a time and finish each. Then she can forget it and start something new.

The child's propensity to flit from one thing to another is sure to distress the parent. Why can't he finish his airplane instead of leaving it dismembered in the middle of the floor and running away to play with his wagon? The mother regards him as a fritterer; starting much, accomplishing nothing. So she questions, "Should a child be made to finish everything he starts?"

There can be no definite answer to such a question. Small children have a limited span of interest. With half a dozen playthings to choose from they flit one, drop it, attack another. Nothing holds them for long and it might spoil their interest in some toy to be made to dress the doll completely, build the house or stack up all the cylinders.

But our part is to make the tasks of small children so easy to accomplish that they can finish them and thus get the glow of success. If the task is too lengthy, or too difficult, their interest vanishes and it may be the mother canny bound them into finishing it. If the first tasks are small and easy to do, succeeding tasks can be longer and more difficult. This will lure the child to the acceptance of difficulties in view of the greater success and praise to be earned.

After the stage of early childhood is past, there is some virtue in setting up a pattern of continued adherence to a plan once it has been started. It is important for parents to insist upon a child living with a new plan long enough to be sure that his interest will survive its difficulties. The parents can't exchange the expensive clarinet for drums, just because the child's desire to play the clarinet won't keep him practicing long enough to bring it about.

Perhaps parents are partially to blame for children's indecision because they fulfill their every desire so readily. If each new task is thoughtfully selected and each new skill is pondered before it is attempted, children might be more serious about their obligations to practice and play with new ventures until they have made themselves masters of them.

War In Pacific Boosts Work Of Toronto I.O.D.E.

TORONTO, Dec. 16.—(CP)—One of the many repercussions of the new war in the Pacific is a rush of work for the Municipal Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, which acts as a clearing house for the work of the 87 chapters of the order in the Toronto area. Response to the appeal from the Pacific coast was immediate and it was disclosed last night that a great many cartons of special clothing have already been forwarded. More is on the way and still more is being prepared for packing.

Hazel Wasmuth Is Pretty Bride Of December

PERFORMED in the soft glow of candlelight at an event solemnized on Monday, was the charmingly appointed all-white wedding ceremony at which Hazel Wasmuth pledged marriage vows with Pilot Sub-Lieut. H. F. Irving, R.C.N.V.R. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wasmuth, of Johnston, and the bridegroom is the son of Rev. and Mrs. S. H. Irving of Medicine Hat and formerly of this city.

The ceremonies was performed in Norwood United church by the bridegroom's father, Rev. Irving, who was assisted by Rev. W. T. Young.

Forming a colorful and attractive setting for the service were the spruce boughs, poinsettias and boughs of green cedar that decorated the church for the occasion.

To the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Myrtle Cooke, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She was a graceful figure in her full length gown of white cut crepe. Her gown was fashioned with sweetheart neckline, the long bodice fastened with tiny covered buttons. Gathered at the hipline, her skirt fell in soft folds slightly en train.

A veil of fine bridal illusion was caught to her head with a Juliet cap of orange blossoms and carried on soft folds to the floor. Her only ornament was a cameo pendant, gift of the bridegroom. Completing her ensemble, she wore white satin slippers and carried a white Bible, marked with deep red roses.

Miss Daisy Wasmuth was her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Janet May and Miss Doris Stuart attended her as bridesmaids.

All attendants were gowned alike in white silk jersey, fashioned with high necklines, long fitted waists and full, gathered skirts. Sleeves of their gowns were bracelet length. They wore white taffeta Dutch caps and their bouquets were of deep red carnations.

Mr. Donald Irving supported the bridegroom as best man.

Ushering guests to holly and tulle marked pews were Mr. Gordon Webster and Mr. Jack Sanborn. During the signing of the register, Mr. Douglas Boy sang "Because."

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception to about 60 guests was held at the Corona hotel. To receive guests, Mrs. Wasmuth wore a floor-length gown of plum crepe, offset with black accessories and a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Irving chose for her son's wedding a formal gown of black silk velvet, black accessories, a black picture hat and corsage of talisman roses.

The bride's table was centred with a wedding cake imbedded in white tulle and holly and was lighted by silver candles, from which tapers. A toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. W. D. Graham.

TO RESIDE IN HALIFAX

After the reception, the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Medicine Hat, after which they will make their home in Halifax.

For travelling the bride wore a frock of Australian claret wool, designed with a matching scuffed jacket. Over this, she wore a raccoon coat, and black accessories.

Women To Have Opportunity To Serve As War Workers

OTTAWA, Dec. 16.—(CP)—Women—all women—must work in this war if Army and War Services Minister Thorson Monday night, plans are in the making to see they all have the opportunity.

Next phases for marking women are going to appear in war industry as production expands. New places will be available in the women's auxiliary and auxiliary services. Other women must enlarge their activities to embrace the work previously done by women who take employment in war industry.

"The need for women—now or shortly to be called—is to be added to, not substituted for, what we have already taken as much as we're good at now.

"It is essential that women should take hold of this time of necessity and organize themselves for larger participation in war industries than ever before."

The minister said the government hopes to avoid conscription of women, but if the 150,000 odd new workers which are required in war industry cannot be obtained in any other way, conscription must be resorted to.

"Employers, he said, have been encouraged to use women workers wherever possible.

"This is a definite break from normal times in most countries but these are urgent times and employers must be encouraged to take women, just as women must be encouraged to seek employment."

NATIONAL SERVICE

The government is agreed on the principle of selective national service for Canadians in Canada, and this means women as well as men, Mr. Thorson said.

It means eventually every man and woman will be employed in their most useful place, either in the farm, the factory, the field the home or in the auxiliary services.

Government estimates are that Canada has 216,000 married women with no children and 218,000 married women with only one child.

During the 1940 national registration 945,650 women said their circumstances allowed them to serve by changing their present occupation to some other for which they were qualified. Mr. Thorson said present plans are to enlist 2,400 women within the next six months in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force and a similar number in the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

"But," he added, "there will be an ever greater requirement of [illegible] women for munitions production. The 70,000 women now engaged in war industry must be doubled. That will mean extension of labor transfer arrangements."

Mrs. G. Scott Heads W.A. At Robertson

Mrs. George H. Scott was named president of the Robertson W.A. at their annual meeting held in the ladies' parlor of the church on Monday afternoon.

Members elected to accompany her on the executive the past year as annual reports were read by the secretary and treasurer of the organization. Reports revealed that the society had enjoyed a successful year and that $1,000 had been paid on the church debt. Donations were made to the War Services unity of the church, Indians' aide fund, dominion fund and All People's Mission.

Reports given by secretaries of the various circles showed that much war work had been done in the way of knitting, making quilts and sending boxes.

Those who will assume the offices for roll call for 1942 include: Honorary president, Mrs. J. E. Somerville; past president, Mrs. P. R. Thompson; vice-presidents, Mrs. H. Lister and Mrs. J. Leask; recording secretary, Mrs. A. E. Flood; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Wright; treasurer Mrs. W. L. Mitchell; assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. Bruce; flower convener, Mrs. A. F. Anderson; pianist Mrs. H. S. Craig; secretaries, Mrs. A. F. Ewing, Mrs. A. M. Paul, Mrs. H. MacCrostie, Miss McGee.

own congregation, and others whom he served."

"For 16 years he moved among you, a faithful parish priest, boldly proclaiming the whole truth of God, sharing great occasions with you as they came, and all the changes and chances of mortal life.

"Gathered here, too, are representatives of the armed services, with whom he served so gallantly and proudly; a good soldier of the king and a loyal comrade in arms.

"We stand today in the presence of death," the bishop said. "But our common sorrow reminds us of our common hope."

While the coffin was borne from before the altar to the hearse at the entrance to the church, Pipe Maj. Henry Laing sounded the Lament.

Steady Flow Of Recruits Is Reported

Steady flow of recruits into the Canadian Army (A) was reported Tuesday by Lt. Col. Alan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A District depot. Although the numbers are not as great as desired, the response is satisfactory.

Lt. Col. Elliott declared that on Monday 17 recruits went before medical boards at the Prince of Wales armory, and there were 16 waiting for the boards when the doors opened Tuesday. All men now enlisting for general service will be absorbed into the 23rd quota of reinforcements for the active army.

SPECIAL RECRUITING

In addition, special recruiting is proceeding for No. 8 Base Ordnance Corps, the 96th Anti-Tank Battery, R.C.A., and No. 17 Cavalry Field Ambulance, all units being mobilized for active service. The first-mentioned will proceed overseas as soon as brought up to full strength of 1,600.

All branches of the active army require recruits—artillery, signals, engineers, armored units, anti-aircraft, anti-tank, army service, ordnance and medical corps and infantry. Recruiting offices are open throughout the day.

SPECIAL CALL FOR TRADESMEN ISSUED

Special call was issued Tuesday by Lt. Col. Alan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A District depot, for tradesmen to enlist in ordnance workshops for service in this country.

The call stipulates that men can qualify even though their physical category may be no higher than "C" but they must qualify in army trade tests one or two. "The men are required for home war establishments for ordnance workshops," he said.

Trades required are armored artificers, motor mechanics, panel beaters, welders, fitters, electricians and wireless mechanics.

Prospective volunteers will be given complete details at the Prince of Wales Armory.

"This is a rush order and we hope for a quick and complete response," said Lt. Col. Elliott.

Mr. Knudsen has been in America since May last after escaping from Norway following the German occupation. Topic of his address will be "My War Experiences in Big Away and Negotiations With the Germans."

Highway Crash Victims Leave City Hospital

Mrs. E. Cranna, of 9731 93 street, who suffered a head cut in a weird four-vehicle traffic mixup just west of the city Saturday night, was released from the Misericordia hospital Monday.

A. Bjornson, Jr., Spruce Grove, who was bruised in the same collision, left the hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Cranna was a passenger in a car with her husband. The car was struck by a truck three miles west of the city on the Edmonton-Jasper highway.

Muskeg fires alongside the highway, sending off large clouds of smoke, were responsible for the collisions, it was stated.

"Three Traveled East"

—By Ruth Ayers

SYNOPSIS

Two weeks before Christmas, Connie Dawson, attractive reporter on the Sentinel—ready to start on a special assignment to St. John's, Newfoundland, is told the New York Press Bureau has appointed a man instead. Connie's marriage to Jerry Marsh, piloting bombers to Britain, is scheduled for Jerry's Christmas furlough in the north. Flying to New York to see the bureau chief, storms ground Connie's plane in the bus he; seat neighbor, J. J. Patterson, unwittingly confides that he is on the way to her job! Three-year-old Skippy's mother is left in hospital en route and "Pat" promises to deliver the boy to relatives in the east. Snowbound, the passengers find refuge in a schoolhouse. Waking from a nap, Connie learns that Pat is telephoning long distance. From a farmhouse she gives her story to the New York Press Bureau and flies to see the chief. When he offers her the coveted assignment she refuses it. Connie asks Mr. Higgins, chief of the bureau, how Pat impressed him. She learns Pat is leaving for Newfoundland that day, and gets his New York address.

CHAPTER XXV

THE whirl caught up with her again.

She and Jerry went out together, the same handsome couple who had turned heads in the night clubs where they had gone the first night of their reunion. They turned heads still as they swung along the street—Connie, stunning in the sports plaid suit and the Cossack hat—Jerry, a young god in uniform and wings.

They went to the Marriage License Bureau. This was real. Name, age, address. And someone to swear that they told the truth and nothing but the truth. Someone to tell them they would have the license in plenty of time to be married on Christmas Day.

Afterward, Connie and Jerry sat for a few minutes in the square which adjoined City Hall.

"Love me?" Jerry asked her.

"Yes—more than anything. And all this is turning out just as I wanted it to be."

He put his arm around her, unmindful of the youngsters who played in the park. "I've been wondering—you haven't seemed—well, quite the same, Connie."

"I will be now," she said. "Perhaps the excitement, the rushing around town which we've been doing has got me down a little. Or maybe I haven't quite recovered from the bus trip."

But she would get over it—oh, she'd have to now. She and Jerry had taken the first step toward the wedding bells on Christmas day. In less than a week she'd be Mrs. Jerry Marsh. She'd belong to this man with whom she'd been in love almost all her life. He hadn't changed—there was no reason why she shouldn't be quite so crazy about him as she'd always been.

She turned to him on impulse. "Darling, let's not go back to Newfoundland. Let's go home after we're married."

"Home—what's bothering you, Connie?"

"Nothing—oh, nothing at all. I just thought that perhaps we'd both travelled far enough. You in the bombers—me on the bus."

He laughed. "Honey, you are tired. We're two of a kind—speed, action, adventure. Everything at home would be terribly stale after what I've been doing."

"Yes—everything would be stale —dreadfully so."

She figured it out then. He had not changed—same Jerry, same need for life in capital letters. But she was different. She had—she'd begun to have a kinship with all simple, everyday people—like the old lady in the farm-house kitchen; like Janet Gregg, the school teacher, and—yes, like Pat Patterson.

"Still, it would be nice to be home for Christmas," she said.

"What does it matter so long as you and I are together?" he asked.

Yes, they were together but in a minute now they'd start dashing around town again, a handsome couple, feted wherever they went. Jerry loved it and said it was good publicity for all pilots who flew for Britain. But Connie suspected that he liked it, too, because it was good advertising for him.

Oh, when they were married—when they were by themselves again, everything would be all right. That's what she must believe.

"Hope you don't mind because I'm getting here wishing for things that are silly and unimportant."

"Of course I don't mind," he said. "I'm going to make you very happy. Let's celebrate by having luncheon at the liveliest spot in town."

She threw herself into the mood. She talked with Jerry about wedding plans—the ceremony in a down-town chapel, the friends they knew in the city who'd attend—the place they'd have the wedding supper.

It became more real every minute. Things to do, things to plan, things to buy.

The dress she'd brought along in her trunk for their wedding in Avalon didn't seem quite dashing enough for the ceremony in Manhattan. "Tomorrow I'll shop for this afternoon," she told Jerry.

"Want me to tag along?"

"That's supposed to be unlucky. I'll go alone and meet you later for tea."

Six days until her wedding, and Connie went shopping. The stores were crowded. People were spilling packages, shoving good-naturedly.

Connie walked up Fifth Avenue which was all the Christmas streets from everywhere rolled into one. Bells chimed from the big windows of one store—carolers sang from the balcony of another. Counters were bedecked with gift packages; jewels shone behind glass casts.

And still Connie Dawson didn't quite catch the spirit of it. She concentrated on buying things for her wedding day—finally chose a lovely pleated dress in ice blue with a wide studded silver belt.

Out on the avenue again, she walked on, and finally turned down a side street. As she hurried west, the color and the gayety were left behind. Here there were small shops, cheaply decorated with red and green paper—imitation Christmas trees—corner bars with the letters of "Merry Christmas" struck across the windows.

Somewhere along the way there was a small church where a crib had been set outside in the tiny yard behind a rusty grilled fence. Figures were kneeling around it, brightly tinted plaster figures.

Connie Dawson looked at it and kept on her way. Her own life was settled. She was to be married at Christmas time to Jerry Marsh, the man she loved. They'd applied for their marriage license already—they'd made their plans. But it seemed as if she hadn't quite squared things with a redhead. He was still in her thoughts, reminding her, reproaching her. Not because she would marry another man, because he'd known that all along. No, it was because when she'd walked out on him and Skippy, she'd destroyed his faith in everyone.

And then she came to the hotel where Pat Patterson was staying. Perhaps he'd gone already. That would settle everything—write the finish line.

The hotel was just as she'd imagined it would be. There was no pretense about the lobby, a bare white-tiled place with imitation marble pillars holding a cracked ceiling aloft. There was a cigar stand, a lunch counter, a mirror with fly-specked glass.

Connie walked over to the desk. "Have you a J. J. Patterson registered here?"

It was foolish to have come at all. The man was gaping as if she were something strange in this lobby. Then he turned to the ledger.

"J. J. Patterson—yes," the clerk said.

"May I see him, talk to him?"

"Sorry," the clerk said, scanning the record again, "but he has checked out. Musta gone while I was off duty. Didn't see him—but then I never did see him."

"You mean he stayed in his room all the time he was here?"

"Guess that's about it, miss. Didn't have anything to say to no one —didn't go out, so far's I know."

The mirror over the desk had undulations in the glass so that Constance Dawson was a wavery figure in it, not one but two people, really.

She thought of Pat—the cocky one, the bumptious one who'd been so keen about Christmas and everything it stood for—and yet he'd stayed in this miserable hotel, not going anywhere—not seeing anyone.

Then she saw that she wasn't alone. A woman in a gray uniform, straggly hair, haggard face, was standing beside here.

"Was you asking about the young man in Room 445?" she wanted to know.

"Yes," Connie whispered, "Yes, I was."

"I thought so," the maid said. "I seen a newspaper picture of you in his room. If you ask me, that young man was sick—and heartsick, too, all the time he was here."

Connie turned. "What do you mean—sick, and heartsick, too?"

The maid reached into the pocket of her apron.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

One of the unique features of the "Have-a-Heart-Take-a-Hand" party in New York is the rubber bridge tournament. The players enter and draw their opponents. Eight hands are played as in regular rubber bridge. At the end of the eight hands, the low pair is eliminated and another round is started.

Opening—♣ 10. 16

One of the greatest rubber bridge players of all time was Mike Gottlieb and evidently he has done a good job at teaching Mrs. Gottlieb, known in the theatrical world as Jane Winton. Here is a hand I saw her play during the Have-a-Heart elimination.

Dummy played the jack of clubs on the opening lead and East won with the queen. East led the heart, and Mrs. Gottlieb, sitting South won with the ace. A spade lead was ducked by East, dummy's queen winning. Then a low diamond lead to the jack fell to West's king.

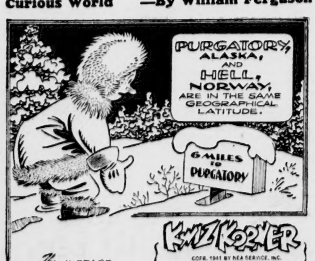

West saw that to continue hearts would force an embarrassing discard from East. He returned a diamond, and East's nine forced South's queen. South led the king of spades and again East held off.

It was clear to Mrs. Gottlieb that East held this ace, else West would have led a second heart. It was also evident that East probably held a double spade stopper. To continue spades now would be fatal for East could cash with a club, forcing dummy in. Then he would win a fourth trick with his club or diamond stopper and cash his other spade for the fifth trick.

Mrs. Gottlieb therefore cashed the king of hearts, and East was ruffed. He actually felted discarding a diamond. But then dummy cashed the ace and eight of diamonds and led a low club. East won this club and the ace of spades, but then he had to give up.

The South African aard-vark, one of the last animals you'll ever think of, is always the first in the dictionary.

Old Line Party Platform Thing Of Past, Stated

Old line political parties have no platforms and all they do is find fault with those who have. Premier William Aberhart declared in addressing a public meeting at Haddon Hall, 97 street, Monday evening. He contended that the old line parties "don't dare to proclaim a platform because people would turn them down."

The Premier was the main speaker at the meeting, held in the interests of all those interested in monetary reform. It was the last in this series, which had commenced in September and had run through until the concluding gathering Monday.

F. D. Shaw, Social Credit member of parliament for Red Deer, was the other speaker of the evening.

Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, was chairman.

BRITISH WAY

First giving a brief lecture on the book, Money the Master Key, by John H. Bankmore, M.P. for Lethbridge, and leader of the Social Credit forces in parliament, the Premier later gave his main address on The Stump of a Tree.

He declared that all across the Dominion there are memorials to the men who gave their lives in the Great War of 1914-1918. If it were possible to put in one word, all the things for which those gallant men fought and died, he felt that word would be "Liberty."

"Liberty, democratic liberty, is worth dying for," he declared. "The memorials are for soldiers who died for liberty. All across the Dominion are memorials and I hope they never will be forgotten."

He declared that there are "some things we cannot do without," and those ideals of the British way of living were among them. "We are fighting not only for democratic liberty but for economic security as well," he said.

Dealing with the progress made by the monetary reform movement, he declared: "We have progressed this far. There is no reason why we can't get the rest of the way."

"VICTORY MUST COME"

Turning attention to the past, he pointed out that Moses had the task of leading 600,000 people out of bondage—about 200,000 less than there are in Alberta. Then people began to criticize. Moses lost his temper and was told he would never see the promised land and that no matter what the people did, he should stand up to it and not lose his temper.

He pointed out that the stump of a tree is a memorial to the Gentiles. God divided humans into three classes, Jew, Gentile and Church of God. He drew a parallel from Biblical times to show that Hitler is attempting to destroy those who are true to God, "Only God can make a tree, but any fool can make a stump," he reminded his audience.

He declared that "selfishness, greed and lust for power" is the real paganism, and must be destroyed, and that they could not succeed "as long as there is a God in Heaven."

The premier contended that "victory must come to those who want to preserve the democratic way of life and economic security and who are opposing the dog-eat-dog jungle sort of life. It is going to be difficult. But we can see it moving to the end. You and I can take courage."

CRITICIZES INDEPENDENTS

Mr. Manning thanked the premier for his series of studies and the messages brought during the meetings.

Mr. Shaw, in recalling that Canada was engaged in a "mighty conflict against totalitarian forces" pointed out that "if Hitler were victorious, he would restore the dark ages to this earth." He contended that "what we have to fear is concentration camps, the gestapo, the blood purges and those things, from outside, which we all fear and denounce, regard as our enemies."

Recent events had convinced many who had not previously examined the seriousness of the situation, with the real danger. He felt that monetary reformers probably were even more serious than others to win the war.

Mr. Shaw delivered attacks upon the Independent political movement. Referring to recent Independent criticisms of Premier Aberhart, Mr. Shaw charged that "it ill-becomes any one to undermine the founders of monetary reform by falsely referring to them as pro-Nazis or what have you. In these days of national unity, I am more inclined to refer to the utterers of such statements as subversive or pro-Nazi.

WINNIPEG CONVENTION

"We have a hybrid political organization in this province, originally organized to put the present government out of office, known as the Independents, whose members through their very utterances have placed themselves in the position in which they endeavored to place the Premier of this province. The Liberals have sickened of them and they must be a lot worth watching."

Mr. Shaw reviewed in some detail the Winnipeg convention at which the national monetary reform organization was brought into being. He declared that all interested in monetary reform were represented at the convention and that "now is the time for united action in monetary reform." He pointed out that delegates deplored in no uncertain manner the control of the Canadian financial system by private interests.

Delegates also felt that if Canada was to engage in an all-out war effort and the post-war rehabilitation of soldiers, then "it was imperative to restore to the government, the right to the control, issue and regulation of money."

Mr. Shaw continued his address

Liaison Officer

Wing Cmdr. Ernest A. McNab, of Saskatoon, one of Canada's leading ace fighters in the war, and at present commander of a flying school at Saskatoon, who has been appointed liaison officer between the Royal Canadian Air Force and the United States Air Force on the west coast.

Population Of Edmonton Now Beats Calgary

Figures released by the bureau of statistics, Ottawa, Monday indicate that Edmonton's population has increased in the past 10 years from 79,197 to 92,404. The Ottawa total is 1,526 less than the figure announced by the city assessor's department in June after the annual civic census conducted last spring.

During the same ten year period Calgary's population increased from 83,761 in 1931 to 87,264 in 1941, making Edmonton the largest city in Alberta with a lead of 5,140 over Calgary. Ten years ago Calgary led by 4,564.

FLOATING POPULATION

Though the city and Dominion census takers used the same method in counting service forces, reason for the discrepancy in the totals issued by the city and Dominion may be due to the floating population of single men. Many men who had been counted by city enumerators early in spring had left the city due to enlistment, or to the acquiring of jobs in the country by the time the federal counting started in June, Thomas Walker, city assessor stated.

He stated further that Dominion figures are always taken as official, though the spread this year was considerably more than had been the case with previous census figures.

J. C. Marshall and Joseph Driscoll were federal census commissioners this year in the ridings of Edmonton East and West, respectively.

Here is how Edmonton's population has grown according to official figures:

1906	14,088
1911	31,064
1915	59,399
1921	58,821
1928	69,744
1931	79,197
1936	85,696
1941	92,404

Citizens Urged Supply Salvage For War Effort

were also vital products to the war effort. He said there was an assured market for these materials and prices offered by the salvage trade would ensure a substantial revenue to the local salvage committees for war charities.

Mr. Sheline said that household bones were turned into glue for airplanes, and into glycerine for explosives. He pointed out that if every householder in Canada gave two ounces of bones each week, the country would salvage more than 10,000,000 pounds of bones a year for war purposes.

Rags, old clothing, sweaters, wool sox provide rugs, blankets and great coats. Clean woollen waste when graded is very valuable, he added, and wiping rags are in great demand for munitions production. All these can be procured from the rags used through Canadian housewives, Mr. Sheline stated.

Paper and cardboard cartons provide food containers, rifle cases, cases for shells. One small envelope will make a cartridge wad, stated Mr. Sheline. As he emphasized the importance of this phase of the salvage work.

RENEW CAMPAIGN

Monday evening Mr. Sheline discussed plans for the re-opening of the salvage campaign in the city with the Edmonton Salvage committee, and a further meeting of the committee will be called within the next few days to complete arrangements for the holding of a meeting to which all organizations in Edmonton will be invited to send representatives.

It is not expected that active salvage work will be undertaken here until after this meeting has been held and plans formulated for collection of the salvage.
